Believe It, or Not Spending Money Well
Look Out Joan McCormick
Iron Mouth Said It

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE digs out this:

"The Hoover people, like the man who believed in 'killing the cat the first night,' intend to find out about that 'Coolidge draft and tidal wave at the beginning of the convention.

"The plan is to put President Coolidge in nomination on the first ballot, and find out at the start how President Coolidge feels about it, and how the Republican convention feels about it."

That's "news," but Universal Service will forgive you for not believing it.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gives 250,000 francs to repair magnificent windows in the Cathedral of Chartres.

Preserving such beauty for all time and all races is a noble and sensible idea, better than collecting for private possession.

Last summer on the broad terrace back of the Palace of Versailles, in bright moonlight, this writer saw that the heavy stones of the balustrade were fastened together by new clamps of copper.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., put them there, and he put the new copper roof on the old palace, spending millions to preserve that which could never be reproduced. That's a good way to use money.

Mrs. Medill McCormick is expected to be the Kansas City Joan of Arc to attack and defeat Hoover. Before she starts, Mrs. McCormick should remember what happened to the original Joan of Arc. Those that applauded while she served them were missing when they burned poor Joan alive.

Old China changes slowly. Chang Tso-Lin fled from Peking to Mukden, his stronghold, on the advice of magicians and astrologers. Two astrologers, one called "Prince Benevolence," 77 years old; another, "Iron Mouth," have predicted things that convinced him.

The Mongolians like magicians. Genghis Khan was ruled by one of them nearly 700 years ago. Ultimately and wisely, he had the magician's back broken by a strong wrestler.

As this is written the Southern Cross is about landing at Brisbane, Australia, after conquering the wide Pacific.

English ladies give week-end parties for flying guests exclusively. And Newport, R. I., follows suit.

That may help aviation. When Parmentier took potatoes to France, the French wouldn't eat them. The king ordered his nobles to wear potato blossoms in their button holes. Then the French ate potatoes. Now they cook them 1000 ways.

Colonel Barnes, in charge of regular army anti-aircraft guns, thinks he would "have no difficulty in repelling an attack by hostile airplanes." General Mitchell, who spent a good deal of time in the war flying over hostile anti-aircraft guns, does not share Colonel Barnes' views.

What, in the opinion of Colonel Barnes, would happen if enemy airplanes refused to play the game nicely and failed to come within comfortable range of the anti-aircraft guns? How would he deal with those enemy planes?

Mr. Voliva, who calls himself the New Messiah, says: "Nobile and his friends have sailed over the edge of the world, and there is no use looking for them. The earth isn't like a flat plate, you understand.

"There is a high wall around it, thousands of feet high, beyond which the Lord has never seen fit to cast light and sunshine. The dirigible Italia has slipped over that wall."

A few centuries ago everybody would have said, "That's true."

GIRL FLIERS DEFER SEA HOPS UNTIL TOMORROW

The takeoff of the monoplane Friendship from Trespassey Bay, N. F., on an attempted transatlantic flight to England was definitely postponed today until tomorrow morning, at the earliest.

Storms raging at sea caused the postponement. The decision to defer the hop was made this morning by Amelia Earhart Hub girl flier, and her air mates after they had received official weather reports of conditions along their proposed route across the Atlantic.

At the same time Miss Mabel Boll, with her pilot and navigator, were unable to take off in the Columbia

Knowlton Wife Offers Alibi

EXPLAINS STAINS ON HUSBAND'S CAR AT TRIAL OF GIRL'S DEATH CASE

Mrs. Gladys E. Knowlton, wife of Frederick Hinman Knowlton of Framingham, on trial charged with the murder of Marguerite Isabelle Stewart, today offered an alibi for her husband in Middlesex Superior Court.

While a crowded courtroom hung upon her words, the calm, self-possessed woman placed her husband at home at frequent intervals throughout Friday, the day the body was found.

She also explained in detail that she was responsible for the blood stains upon his automobile, and her story in this respect was corroborated by her friend, Mrs. Maud E. Wardrop of Framingham.

On entering the courtroom as witness for the defense, Mrs. Knowlton halted, smiled encouragingly at her husband in the dock, and then took her place on the witness stand.

Knowlton returned the smile and then fastened his eyes on his wife's face as she prepared for examination by Defence Counsel John P. Driscoll.

Boston Child Auto Deaths at Zero

By Frank A. Goodwin

Highway Safety Editor Boston Evening American and Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Has the safety campaign, inaugurated and carried on by the Boston Evening American during the month of May, been worth while?

Frank A. Goodwin

We are sure it has, because the record of child fatalities both in Boston and the State is remarkable.

In the city of Boston not one child was killed in the month of May.

In Massachusetts last month there were ONLY fifteen children killed by automobiles.

The first thought that comes to mind upon reading that sentence is: Why the ONLY? Why should there be any children killed?

Well, there should not be any children killed by automobiles, but there have been, and, sad to admit, there will be other little victims in the future.

If there were ONLY fifteen children killed in Massachu-

NOBILE AND MEN ALIVE, TO BE RESCUED BY SHIP

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 9—The sealing ship Hobby today is steaming full speed toward North Eastland with dog teams, sledges and guides to lend them in a dash to the relief of Gen. Umberto Nobile and crew, now definitely located about 20 miles north of Cape Leigh Smith, where their dirigible Italia was forced down.

Men aboard the Hobby, experienced in Arctic travel and endurance, will accompany the sledges that are to bring the North Pole expedition of the noted Italian flier back to civilization and safety.

Soon after the base ship Citta di Milano established radio communication with the Italia, orders were flashed to the Hobby to proceed with all speed through the ice floes to bring relief to Nobile and his 17 intrepid companions.

Mexico City, June 9 (AP)—Count Michael Karolyi of Hungary has arrived in Mexico City. He said he expected to remain for several months to study conditions.

AMBULANCES RUSHED TO KENMORE TO CARRY VICTIMS TO HOSPITAL

More than 50 persons were injured today in a rear end collision in Back Bay subway.

With many extra cars running because of the ball game, and the subway clogged as a result, an outward bound Lake st.-Commonwealth ave. car drove into the rear end of a heavily loaded Braves Field trolley between Massachusetts ave. and Kenmore stations.

The roar of the crash filled the subway, drowning out the sound of the car wheels, only to be in turn smothered by the shrieks of women and cries of men.

There was the crash of breaking glass added to the din, followed by more screams as many women and girls were cut by the flying particles.

45 RUM SHOPS CLOSED FOR G. O. P. CONVENTION

Kansas City, June 9 (AP)—Efforts to dry up Kansas City for the Republican national convention today resulted in the issuance of temporary injunctions against 45 alleged liquor places. The orders were issued by Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves on application of Harold Lane, in charge of prohibition enforcement in this district. Lane said temporary injunctions would be asked for about 35 other places.

ADMIT MELLON HOLDS KEY TO HOOVER'S FATE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Correspondent.

Kansas City, June 9—The fight between the adherents of Herbert Hoover and the hard-pressed anti-Hoover allies for control of the Republican national convention is growing in bitterness and intensity.

It is reaching the stage of personalities—always a sure sign of desperation on both sides. Hard feelings that may blossom in November are being engendered. Harsh words seldom heard at G. O. P. gatherings are being bandied about the hotel lobbies and in the camps of the various candidates.

"Hoover can't win," proclaim the allies. "Al Smith will bolt him, hands down."

"That is hitting below the belt," retort the Hoover managers. "That

Nobile and Crew Alive — World Is Electrified — By Radio Message

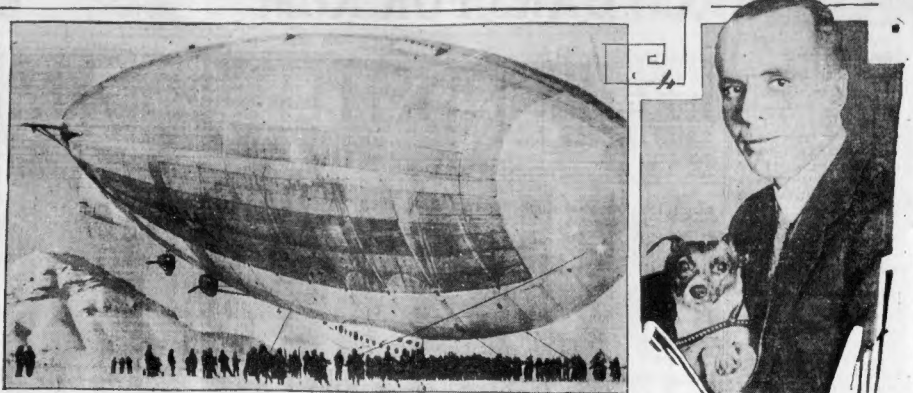
WAITING FOR THE RELIEF PARTY

Here are General Umberto Nobile, in sweater, and officers of the Italia, lost Polar exploration dirigible. The Italia is down about 220 miles from her base at King's Bay, Spitzenbergen. Sledges, dogs and guides start today on the relief mission.



STILL SAFE WITH HER INTREPID CREW

This unusual view shows the dirigible Italia in the Polar regions. The great liner of the air, after cruising over the North Pole, was buffeted in an Arctic gale and apparently blown off her course. She is now in radio communication with her base ship and rescue is near.

50 PERSONS ARE INJURED AS CARS CRASH IN SUBWAY

Many of the women fainted, adding to the confusion, while men fought to reach the exits of the cars, and obtain help.

The doors were opened by the conductors of the two cars and those who were able to do so made their way to the tracks and then through the subway to the Kenmore station.

In the meantime, a call had been sent to the police and a detail of officers from the Back Bay station and divisions 20 and 21 were rushed to the square.

Headed by Sergts. Waugh and French, the officers plunged into the subway, fighting their way through the tangle of humanity, and aiding injured passengers who were trying to reach the surface.

Ambulances had been summoned and in a short time four had been loaded and shot away to the City Hospital, where the victims' injuries were diagnosed as of a minor character.

Others were sent to their homes in taxicabs, many of them refusing to go to hospitals, despite the fact some were badly cut and bruised.

A huge crowd was attracted to Kenmore Square, where the usual traffic jam was badly increased by the curious.

Hundreds of persons craned their necks attempting to catch a glimpse of the victims as they emerged to the surface, some with bloodstained handkerchiefs, and others with blood streaming from wounds.

Outbound traffic in the subway was tied up for some time, and it was not until an hour afterward that it was straightened out.

NOBILE AND HIS CREW ALIVE

Gen. Nobile himself said that all members of the crew were alive.

Communication with the Italia came after days of anxious endeavors and search for the brave little band that took off so courageously in its great airship and cruised over the North Pole, their objective, before disaster overtook them.

Since May 25, when a fierce Arctic storm was raging in the path of the returning Italia, no word had been heard from the explorers.

Suddenly, when hope was almost gone, through the ether came the message that once again brought Nobile and his men in communication with civilization. For 20 minutes the Citta di Milano was in direct radio communication with the explorers and then the relief expedition was given its first definite course to steer for.

That it was Nobile here can be no doubt, dispatches state, for the sender in ending his transmission used the proper recognition signals.

Fragmentary parts of the Nobile message indicated that the Italia was being blown to pieces by the fierce polar winds.

The spot where the Italia is down is about 220 miles from its base here. Just what forced the great ship down has not yet been learned. The spot is semi-bedsted by the pack ice of the Polar seas, making it imperative that the Nobile party be brought out by sledges.

Thus the great adventure of the air ends prosaically on the ice, but that the lives of the gallant band are safe is heartening to the entire world, electrified by that flashing message through the ether waves.

With the Italia somewhere off the northern coast of Spitzbergen when radioed to speed on the relief dash, is Lieut. Luetzon Holm, Norwegian aviator and Arctic explorer. The lieutenant was reported as preparing for an immediate flight to the scene of the Italia's landing. He will try to land himself, but if this is not possible he intends to drop messages telling of the oncoming relief party.

Aboard the Hobby are plenty of huskies, those great dogs of the Far North that can travel day and night over the ice with their intrepid drivers. These canine heroes will lead the relief dash while a world waits with baited breath for news of their success.

"Mush on. Mush on." That will be the cry of the relief party as sledge runners slide speedily over the packs.

MARINES' HERO DECORATED

Washington, June 9 (AP)—The latest Marine hero to keep alive the tradition of his corps for bravery and resourcefulness under desperate conditions, received at the hands of President Coolidge today the highest award within the power of his country to bestow.

Lieut. C. Frank Schilt, who several months ago evacuated 18 wounded Marines from the ruins of the smoking village of Quilali in Nicaragua, by repeatedly landing in the narrow street of the town under the sniping fire of hostile infantry, received the congressional medal of honor on the south lawn of the White House.

NEW ENGLAND DELEGATES START FOR KANSAS CITY

Concord, N. H., June 9 (AP)—New Hampshire's delegation to the Republican national convention set out today for Kansas City. The delegation, which will cast 11 votes, was headed by Governor Huntley N. Spaulding. All are pledged to Hoover.

The New Hampshire party will go through to Aver, Mass., to connect with a train for the West, on which will be the Maine delegation. The Vermont delegation will be taken on at Troy.

STORK'S ALLY, WIFE AND 3 CHILDREN ON BROADWAY

New York, June 9 (INS)—It had to come sooner or later, and today Papa Cromwell and his family arrived on Broadway. He's Edward L. Cromwell, champion father, Bridgeport, Ct., whose wife had him arrested last month after 13 children had failed to halt his ambition for bigger families. He and the wife and three of the children today were given new outfits of clothing a dinner and were taken to a show by a theater director.

WINDOW SMASHERS LOOT N. Y. HOTEL GEM SHOP

Tells How Base Ship Heard Nobile's Call

By CESCO TOMASELLI

Special Correspondent Aboard Citta Di Milano

Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service.

KING'S BAY, June 9 (By Wireless)—In sending this message I am taking advantage of Capt. Romagna's decision to make an exception in my favor to his order given to reserve the radio station aboard the Citta di Milano exclusively for the transmission of messages to the crew of the Italia and the reception of their replies, if any.

It was a few minutes after noon Thursday that our radio operator suddenly began to behave like a man possessed. He squirmed and jumped on his seat, seizing the headphones with both hands, and shouting incoherently. Finally he managed to gasp:

"It is Nobile. It is the Italia."

I do not remember exactly what happened then. I think we all embraced in our excitement. Several of us wept like children. Within a couple of minutes the whole crew was crowding the cabin in a fever of anticipation. By then our operator was calm and business like again.

"It was the Italia," he repeated to Captain Romagna. "A very, very weak message but undoubtedly from the Italia."

After two weeks of tragic anxiety we had grown wary of being prematurely optimistic, but the operator was so certain there was no mistake, that our doubts were dispelled. Moreover, the same faint message was received by our second operator.

"Italia speaking. Italia speaking." was repeated several times. This was followed by a series of signals which were to be repeated twice very clearly.

Capt. Romagna immediately signalled:—

"Where are you?"

A period of intent listening followed. I think none of us ever lived through a period of greater strain. In a few minutes which seemed like hours to us, the Italia was heard, ever so feebly but again the only word that could be distinguished was "Francesco."

"Give us your longitude," the Citta di Milano anxiously signaled. There was another period of anxious expectation but the Italia was not heard again.

The Citta di Milano nevertheless continued to signal:

"We have partially heard you. Do not waste your energies. We shall call again later when conditions are more favorable for transmission."

EXONERATE 3 IN RUM INQUIRY

With a biting denunciation of Freeman D. Dickinson, State boiler inspector, and Michael J. Doherty, State House fireman, the State Commission on Administration and Finance today completely exonerated public officials charged with consuming confiscated liquor at the State House.

Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred F. Foote, John H. Plunkett, chief of inspectors, and Lieut. Joseph E. O'Connor of the State police were not only given a clean bill of health, but were highly praised in the report filed with the legislative investigating committee.

The report declared that the allegations were not only untrue, but malicious, and recommended drastic action against individuals who made false accusations and "false statements under oath in this investigation."

The report, signed by members of the Commission of which Charles P. Howard is chairman, was filed shortly after 1 o'clock with the Legislative committee apointed to investigate liquor charges, and made public immediately.

It stated that after five weeks' investigation and examination of 126 witnesses, the commission found that with a very few minor exceptions the allegations were unwarranted by any facts. The commission also found nothing in the handling of the personnel of the Department of Public Safety which would indicate any tendency on the part of Commissioner Foote to retain improper persons in the service. On the contrary the commission was impressed with the high character of the whole of those members who appeared before it, and particularly of the men selected to handle the forfeited liquor.

The commission found that Foote and O'Connor had exercised all reasonable vigilance to prevent improper removal of forfeited liquor.

Allegations of Dickinson, Doherty and others in this regard, the report stated, were in part based on ignorance of the manner in which the liquor was handled and in the main were absolutely untruths.

3 INDICTED IN ALBANY POOL

New York, June 9 (AP)—Declaring the Albany baseball pool to be a swindle and saying that its profits last year had amounted to more than a million dollars, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle today made public indictments by the Federal Grand Jury against Matthew F. Dugan, Sam Cohen and J. J. Kelly, all of Albany.

They are charged with misuse of the mails under a statute which makes illegal transmission of mail in promotion of lotteries or similar gambling schemes or lists of prizes. The maximum imprisonment for first offenders is two years and fine of $1000. Second offenders may get five years.

Tuttle said he had been receiving complaints from many quarters about the C. C. and B. M. A. pool, and that reports of the conscienceless manner in which the baseball pool was preying upon laborers and small salaried employees in the southern district of New York had made federal investigation necessary.

In outlining the pool's method Tuttle said prizes offered total $75,000 a week and that the lure of a chance to win large returns at $1 a play had drawn counties people who could ill-afford to spare the money into a game where "the odds are so tremendously against the individual player that the thing goes beyond the meanest mind of gambling and is in reality a swindle."

Of those indicted today, Dugan is an employe of the postoffice department.

AMERICAN WOOLEN CO. IS SUED FOR $5,000,000

Suit for $5,000,000 against the American Woolen Co. was filed today in Suffolk Superior Court by the Old Colony Trust Co., and Cornelius A. Wood of Andover, trustees for Frank E. and William M. Wood, late president of the woolen company.

Income taxes for five years during 1919 to 1924 inclusive is the basis for the suit, the plaintiffs claiming the woolen company agreed to pay Wood's income taxes while he was president. The taxes, according to the suit, total $3,500,000. The sum with interest is asked.

ONE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Newport, R. I., June 9—Falling into a spin at 3000 feet, a navy seaplane crashed in a field at Jamestown today, killing Lieut. Homer N. Wilkinson, Navy Aviation Corps, and injuring Seaman First Class Harold E. Riker so badly that he probably will die.

Both men were attached to the U. S. S. Concord, flagship of the destroyer fleet in Narragansett bay.

It was the first time Riker had gone into the air, but Lieut. Wilkinson was a pilot of years' experience. He lived at 1619 Brandon ave., Norfolk, Va.

Miss Boll to Tell Life History if Flight Succeeds

New York, June 9 (INS)—Mabel Boll will remain a "mystery woman" until she flies the Atlantic. If successful, she will tell how she came to be "Queen of Diamonds."

"I would rather not talk about myself until I have accomplished something in the world," she said today. "If I am to be the first woman to cross the Atlantic, then I will tell the world all about myself."

WIFE DEFENDS KNOWLTON

MRS. GLADYS B. KNOWLTON

Star witness for defense testified today to an alibi for her husband, Frederick Hinman Knowlton, on trial in East Cambridge for alleged slaying of Beverly school teacher.

KNOWLTON'S WIFE PRESENTS ALIBI AT DEATH TRIAL

Asked to describe her husband's appearance at their home on Friday, the day the murdered girl's body was found, Mrs. Knowlton said:

"My husband left home at 7:45 Friday morning. I saw him at the house again at 11:30, when he took some cookies and two jugs to my mother's home in Ashland.

"I didn't see him again in the morning, but at 2:30 in the afternoon he came home, his aunt being there, and he remained half an hour. He next came home at 5:10 and left with his aunt.

"He returned and we had our night meal together at 5:30, and around 6:30 my husband left again, returning about 7:45. A girl roomer, Evelyn McKenzie, was present. I went out and when I returned at midnight my husband was asleep on a couch."

Mrs. Knowlton said she remembered a Wednesday afternoon some time in March when she and another woman, with Knowlton and the Knowlton boy, went from Framingham to Boston in her husband's car.

"I sat in the rumble seat with my woman friend," said the witness. "Mr. Knowlton and my son were in the front seat. It took an hour to drive to Boston. We parked off Summer st. I returned to the car after shopping and we drove to Framingham. I sat on the right hand side of the rumble seat.

"I had not been in the best of health for two weeks. Before leaving home I had been feeling poorly and I called the attention of my woman friend to my feelings. They grew worse during the day. On the way home, after passing Wellesley Hills sq., they were very bad and I felt faint. I had a hemorrhage.

WAS ILL AT HOME.

"When we arrived home my friend helped me to bed. There was some talk of calling a doctor. I stayed in bed for the next few days."

Dist. Atty. Robert W. Bushnell asked only two questions in cross-examination.

"How long have you been married?" "Nine years."

"Have you a child five years old?" "Yes."

"That's all," said Bushnell.

The next witness was Mrs. Wardrop, who told of being present on the trip to Boston and corroborated Mrs. Knowlton's testimony of what happened. Court was then adjourned to Monday and the jury was locked up.

When court opened today Knowlton himself continued under cross-examination by Dist. Atty. Bushnell and charged the latter had prevented him on the night of his arrest from voicing suspicion of another man as Miss Stewart's slayer.

The charge was made during a cross-examination of Knowlton by Bushnell, which was resumed at the opening of court, and at the start of which the accused man had shrieked his protestations of innocence.

Knowlton said that during the questioning of him in the district attorney's office on the night of his arrest Bushnell pounded his desk and shouted every time he attempted to speak of another man.

He said Miss Stewart, the Beverly school teacher, feared this man and that he suspected him after learning that the girl's body had been found on the Cambridge turnpike in Concord.

QUESTIONS RULED OUT.

"Did I put a egg in your mouth?" asked Bushnell.

"No," answered Knowlton.

Q.—Did I hit you with a desk? A.—No.

Q.—Did I hit you on the head with a lead pipe? A.—No.

Q.—Did I kick you in the face? A.—No.

Atty. John P. Driscoll, counsel for the defense, objected to this line of questioning and it was ruled out by the court.

At the opening of the session Bushnell questioned Knowlton regarding his previous statement that he had met Miss Stewart by appointment at Framingham at 8:15 on the night before her body was found.

Q.—Did you tell us yesterday that there was some talk almost immediately about the condition she was in? A.—On Thursday night?

"ABOUT A NEW DRESS."

Q.—Yes, I mean the night before she was killed. A.—I don't remember I told you there was talk about it almost immediately.

Q.—Did you ask her what she was concerned about? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did she tell you what she was worried about? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did she tell you about her condition? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did she tell you that she was worried about her condition. A.—I couldn't say.

Q.—Were you interested to know what the serious matter was she wanted to talk with you about that night? A.—Yes.

Knowlton said he did not recall telling the state police that the conversation with Miss Stewart started about a new dress. He said he wanted to leave it with the jury that when she came to Framingham he did not know what she was coming for.

Q.—Were you going to have any profession of affection that night? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did you have any demonstration of affection that night? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did she kiss you? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you kiss her? A.—I don't remember.

Questioned regarding the interrogation in the district attorney's office on the night of his arrest, Knowlton said the stenographer was not in the room all the time.

Q.—Was anything favorable to you in your statement when the stenographer was not there? A.—I don't remember, but during one phase of the questioning I was stopped from answering.

He was asked if he said that the girl expressed a fear for another man, and replied he was going to say so but was stopped by Russell pounding his fist on the table and shouting: "You are trying to lay it onto somebody else."

In response to a question Knowlton said he suspected the man Miss Stewart feared when he read in the newspapers that her body had been found.

$25,000 VOTED PACIFIC FLIERS

There were two Australians and two Americans on board the plane. Capt. Kingsford-Smith and Capt. Ulm are the Australians. The Americans are Navigator Harry W. Lyon and Radio Operator James Warner.

There has been a continuous ovation for the aerial quartet ever since they landed. They have been made national heroes regardless of nationality. The streets are beflagged and the airmen are surrounded with cheering crowds of enthusiasts wherever they appear in public.

The plane is expected to hop off for Sydney within 24 hours. It will leave Sydney for Melbourne on Wednesday.

The plane was overhauled and found to be none the worse for the violent storm it braved through en route to this city from the Fiji Islands.

The Southern Cross bridged the Pacific in eight days. Left Oakland, Cal., on May 31, making stops at Honolulu and Suva, Fiji Islands. The 2400-mile jump from Oakland to Honolulu was made in 27 hours 24 minutes. The 3138-mile flight from Kauai Island, Hawaii, to Suva, Fiji Islands, was made in 34 hours 23 minutes.

The final leg from Naselai Beach, Fiji Islands, to Brisbane—1792 miles—was accomplished in 21 hours 18 minutes. The actual flying time therefore was 83 hours 19 minutes for 7300 miles.

STRIKE AT SMUGGLING ON BORDER

Washington, June 9 (INS)—Railroads operating between United States and Canada were served today with an ultimatum by the Treasury Department that unless they take effective steps to prevent smuggling the Government would detain and search all freight and express cars passing over the border.

This is considered a serious blow to the rum traffic.

Included in the list of railroads notified were the Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Wabash, New York Central, Delaware and Hudson and Pere Marquette.

This action was taken as a result of the recent conference in Buffalo when Customs officials of the American and Canadian Governments, prohibition authorities and rail executives talked the situation over with Asst. Sec. of the Treasury Seymour Lowman.

Officials explained that the railroads have been given an opportunity to save themselves great expense and delay in traffic movement by co-operating with the Government to check the flow of contraband goods.

Smugglers operating all the way from Detroit to Ogdensburg, N. Y., are declared by officials to be doing a $10,000,000 annual business, using chiefly the railroads.

Diamonds, narcotics, and intoxicants are smuggled into United States and alcohol, silk, cigarettes and tobacco into Canada. Treasury reports indicate that railroad employes and subordinate officials of both governments are conniving with the smugglers.

DROWNING BOY IS RESCUED BY TRUCK DRIVER

Nine-year-old Joseph Keaton of Dietson ct., Charlestown, a newsboy, was saved from drowning today by the heroic effort of Edward Walsh of Tufts st., Malden, who leaped from a Navy Yard truck and jumped into the harbor, fully clothed, to rescue him.

In saving the newsboy, who had fallen from Hoosac Tunnel docks, Walsh was forced to swim 50 feet. Both were cared for at the Navy Yard dispensary. After his clothes were dried Walsh went back to his work as a laborer and young Keaton was removed to his home.

GIRL'S SPINE BROKEN IN FALL FROM WINDOW

After falling from a second floor window at her home, Sheafe st., North End, Angelina Colletico, 14, was taken to the Haymarket Relief Station today suffering from a fractured spine. Later she was removed to the City Hospital, where she was considered in serious condition.

BOY BANDITS IN WORCESTER GUN BATTLE

Worcester, June 9—Three youthful bandits in a stolen car were chased and fired upon twice today by the police on the outskirts of the city.

They escaped both times. They returned the police fire. All roads in the vicinity of Lake Quinsigamond are being patrolled by police with riot guns in automobiles and motorcycles in an effort to apprehend the trio.

The three youths were in a sedan stolen last Tuesday from Paul Hanrahan, 4a Elm st., stock broker. All policemen were ordered last night to watch for the car.

Patrolman Henry W. Hyde saw the car today on Plantation st. and fired one shot to halt the youths, but they quickly sped away. Shortly after it was observed on Acton st. by Officers Lawrence W. Henry and Thomas P. Murphy who were riding in a motorcycle with sidecar.

They fired ten or 12 shots at the car and the fleeing youths fired five or six shots.

For two miles the two policemen raced after the bandits, traveling at high speed through Vale, Dorchester and Grafton sts. and Massasoit rd. and losing the trail in Sunderland rd., near Lake Quinsigamond.

Following a report of these two chases to police headquarters, 25 policemen in automobiles and motorcycles, armed with riot guns, patrolled all roads near the scene of the shooting in the hope of apprehending the trio.

SICK GIRL MOURNS LOSS OF HER PET DOG

A sick little girl mourns the loss today of her dog, "Toy," a Boston terrier. For two months he has huddled closely to the sick bed of his mistress in Dorchester, but inadvertently a door was left open and the dog went out. And now Rose Stone sobs softly.

"Toy" is white, marked in the middle of his head and on the chest. His left front paw is broken and he has a brown line running down the right side. If you see "Toy" call Mr. Stone, Capital 2000.

HARVARD FOOTBALL MAN IS HELD IN AUTO DEATH

Joseph P. Crosby, 24, Harvard student leader and halfback on the varsity eleven, was held in bail of $2000 today in Roxbury court charged with manslaughter in the death of Andrew Casey, 60, of Center st., Jamaica Plain. A hearing was set for June 15. Casey was killed near his home when witnesses say he stepped in front of Crosby's machine.

WOOD IN WAR ON CAMBRIDGE ASSOCIATION

"I will drive the Cambridge Industrial Association out of Cambridge. I will bust it up! Wait and see."

This is the answer Russell A. Wood makes to the letter from David Black, executive secretary of the Cambridge Industrial Association, in which he refuses to debate with the former state representative.

The fiery member of the Cambridge school board a week ago challenged the secretary of the Cambridge Industrial Association to a debate on the question: "The Future of Cambridge—Is the industrial growth planned by the Cambridge Industrial Association desirable?"

In his letter of refusal Secretary Black states that the association's work is of a "constructive nature and we are not disposed to waste time and effort on unimportant issues."

The representative makes it plain in his remarks that many of the members of the Cambridge Industrial Association are non-residents of the city and therefore should not be so solicitous about the welfare of the city.

"Who are these people who consider themselves the guides of Cambridge? Who are the would-be new bosses in Cambridge? They are Albert Murray, president of the association and a resident of Melrose and so do the rest of them. David Black is a non-resident. Harry E. Lewis lives in Medford. Joseph W. Motherwell, Melrose; Harry F. Simpson, Newton; those are the vice-presidents," said Wood.

CALLES ACTS IN CHURCH ROW

Rome, June 9 (INS)—President Calles, of Mexico, has made tentative proposals for solution of the dispute between the Mexican State and the Catholic Church, although he refuses at the present time to suspend Mexico's restrictive religious laws. The Calles proposals are based upon an eventual guarantee of religious liberty.

The conditions that Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores brought to the Vatican were taken up today by the congregation of extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs, whose president is Monsignor Borgongini. This body will study the issue in detail and may have a report to make to Pope Pius XI at the end of next week.

Girl Asleep in Shed as Frantic Search Is Made in Lawrence

Lawrence, June 9—While her parents enlisted the aid of the police department and friends to assist in the search for her, little five-year-old Corine Decell of 170 Valley st. lay curled up behind a pile of kindling wood in the back shed of her home sound asleep.

The girl explained her presence in the woodshed by stating she was tired of watching the boys and girls at play and that she retired to the shelter of the woodpile to rest.

1 HURT, 12 FLEE ROXBURY BLAZE

Six-year-old Arthur Green suffered burns and twelve persons were driven to the street today when a stubborn blaze threatened to destroy the three-story brick lodging house in Harrison ave., Roxbury.

The boy was taken to City Hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list. Damage was estimated at $2000 and the cause was "the careless use of a fumigating candle," according to the police. The building is owned by Armina Allen.

STUDENTS HELD AS FIREBUGS

Olivet, Mich., June 9 (INS)—Four students at Olivet College, including a star athlete, were under arrest today in connection with alleged arson plots as the State fire marshal's investigation turned to the $150,000 fire in Parson hall last February.

Those arrested are Paul Harris, 20, Grass Lake, Mich., athlete; Donald C. Smith, son of an Olivet minister; Edgar Caughey and Arnold Dulker, both of Grand Rapids.

Smith is said by police to have confessed setting fires in a fraternity house, for which the society collected $1500 insurance. The fraternity was in debt, it is said.

THREE SISTERS HURT IN CRASH

Three sisters and a male acquaintance were injured today in the collision of automobiles at Hampden and Adams sts., Roxbury. Paulha Koldubsky, 19, of Courtland rd., Dorchester, was taken to City Hospital suffering from lacerations of the left leg and right hand.

Elizabeth, 21, and Sarah, 13, sisters of Miss Koldubsky, sustained contusions and abrasions of the knees. Bertrand Seigal, a passenger in the car, was cut about the chin. The automobile in collision with the Koldubsky car is owned and operated by Dadour Dadourian of Chelsea, according to the police.

SERVICE BY CARDINAL HAYES

Albany, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—Catherine Alice Smith, youngest daughter of Governor and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, today was married to Francis Joseph Quillinan of New York city and Troy.

The ceremony was performed in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception by Patrick Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York. There were more than 1500 invited guests, many of them prominent in social, industrial and political circles of the country.

Miss Smith's sister, Emily Josephine, was married to Maj. John Adams Warner two years ago in the Cathedral by Cardinal Hayes. Miss Smith's brothers, Alfred, Jr., and Arthur, have been married for several years. Walter, the youngest of Governor Smith's children, is in school.

Banked about the Cathedral was a profusion of roses, lilies, smilax and ferns. Within the sanctuary and heaped against the altar were scores of white blooms with only the carving green of ferns at the altar and the roses at the chancel rail to relieve the sea of whiteness.

A recital by the Cathedral organist, Dr. Joseph D. Brodeur, preceded the ceremony. As the final note of the organ recital died away in the great church, a moment of silence ensued. Then a fanfare of trumpets and the milling notes of the organ heralded the approach of the officiating clergy.

The bridegroom with the groomsman, George Quillinan, his brother, came before the altar. Heading the bridal party was tiny Jane Glynn, niece of the bride. The maid of honor was Miss Julia Manning of New York city, childhood chum of the bride.

The bridal gown was a pictorial model of ivory moire taffeta, fashioned with a tight bodice and full skirt. The gown was caught with a fichet of rose point lace and there was a band of lace around the bottom of the skirt which was finished with wide scallops. The long lace mitts were also of rose point. Descending from the back of the Juliet cap of rosepoint was a six-yard double tulle veil, forming the train. The bride's slippers were of ivory moire taffeta, trimmed with rose point lace rosettes.

At the mansion, a reception was given for the hundreds of guests. The lower floor of the mansion was profusely decorated with flowers, an orchestra played in the house and a military band on the mansion grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Quillinan have indicated they will attend the Democratic national convention at Houston. With the exception of the Governor and three grandchildren, the Smith family will journey to Houston.

SARGENT HONORED AT RUTGERS UNIVERSITY

New Brunswick, N. J., June 9 (AP)—John Garibaldi Sargent, Attorney-General of the United States, today received the honorary degree of doctor of laws at the 162nd annual commencement of Rutgers University. Two hundred degrees, 11 of which were honorary, were awarded by President John M. Thomas.

Edgar Derry Tilliyer, inventor and scientist, of Southbridge, Mass., received the honorary degree of doctor of science.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Miriam Winslow Florence Ward

BOSTONIANS ARE OVERWHELMINGLY HORSEY THESE DAYS

In many respects the paramount interest of Boston just now is horses, shows and race meets. Three big events in the immediate future are the Eastern Horse Club's two days of racing at the Country Club, and John R. Macomber's race meet at Raceland. The horse loving element will be out in force. Some of them are pictured here as they appeared at the recent Millwood Hunt Horse Show.

KING HORSE REIGNS ONCE MORE

Two-Day Meet Will Be Held on Clyde Park Course Next Saturday and the Monday Following; Raceland Events Wednesday, June 20

BRIDES OF JUNE, 1928, MAY BE PERFECTLY RAVISHING. THEY ARE, OF COURSE. SWEET GIRL GRADUATES may be sweeter this June than ever before. His Majesty the haughty senior may be ever so imposing. But locally speaking, should brides, graduates and seniors all be put in the scales together against King Horse, interest in the four-footed contender would outweigh all else. King Horse has his innings for three wonderful days; Saturday, June 16, and Monday, June 18, at the Country Club; Wednesday, June 20, at Raceland. And the whole world that loves a horse and spectacle will be on hand.

THE FASHIONABLES WILL BE THERE; AND THE WORLD not quite so fashionable, come to view the smart setters and the equine wonders. And then there is the enormous throng that loves a spectacle for its own sake, the railbirds recruited from the world and his wife and most of his children, who consider a $2 entrance fee little enough to exchange for such thrills and excitements. Messrs. Augustus P. Goodwin, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., and Sumner Pingree entertained at luncheon at the Union Club a day or so ago and disclosed all sorts of plans for taking care of the throngs, and had much to say in promise of a fine card. Superlatives alone may be used to designate its excellencies.

BRIGHT COLORS FROM PRACTICALLY EVERY WELL known racing stable in the East will flash down the course, next Saturday and the following Monday. Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock is sending up a racer or two. John R. Macomber's fleet footed horses are entered. Pingree horses will be on hand. Goodwin colors will flash, and so will Neyhart. The Country Club steeplechase course is a heartbreaker, one of the sportiest, that tries the mettle of rider and horse alike.

MANY YEARS HAVE GONE BY SINCE IT WAS FIRST THE correct thing socially to journey to Clyde Park for "the Races," and 1928 finds it just as much "the thing." Also 1928 crowds find themselves promised an exceeding fine race card, a glitteringly gorgeous spectacle of society on parade, famous steeplechasers coming madly down the stretch, flags a-flying, people shouting. A race meet at the Country Club is exactly the sort of brilliant picture calling for adjectives galore and superlatives running rampant.

AS FOR THE SOCIAL FRILLS THAT DECORATE RACE days—Augustus F. Goodwin and Mrs. Goodwin are entertaining at dinner at the Country Club. Their hospitality is Saturday evening, putting a gay and festive period to the first big day of the Clyde Park meeting. For the Raceland event, John R. Macomber has sent out cards to a choice circle for tea and dancing after the race meet at Framingham on Wednesday week.

THE GROTON HUNT, SMART RIDERS TO HOUNDS under Richard Ely Danielson's mastership, is having a very special celebration this evening. A housewarming. And the house thus to be affectionately dedicated is the Groton Hunt's new clubhouse; new only, however, in the sense that Groton now occupies it. For the house is the widely known and historic Groton landmark, the James Lawrence manor, so closely associated with Lawrence tradition and family history. The housewarming will be the jolliest sort imaginable, Groton members will see to that.

A SIMPLE GOWN, BUT A LOVELY ONE, EMBROIDERED in seed pearl orange blossoms on ivory satin adorn Miss Anne Tudor, as at high noon she stod before Emmanuel's altar with Robert Stinson to be joined in wedlock. There was a rounded train sweeping from the waist, and the veil was sentimentally in keeping since it is the same exquisite priceless heirloom now ivory toned by time Mrs. Henry DaRois Tudor wore for her own wedding. A bride of spiritueIle type such as Mrs. Stinson is beautiful in the symbolic satin and laces.

BRIDESMAIDS IN FROCKS OF CRISP WHITE ORGANDIE combined with pink or green, looking out demurely from beneath drooping leghorns, were the essence of spring wedding-garden party beauty. For blossoms they carried white iris, just a cluster to enhance the freshness of frocks and hats. Mrs. Tudor, mother of the bride, wore a handsome costume of blue, and her grandmother, the distinguished matron, art patron and grands dame, Mrs. John Chipman Gray, was in purple.

A PERFECTLY APPOINTED COLONIAL MANSION AND gardens in keeping served excellently for wedding reception. The Tudor-Stinson guests taking the short motor journey to "The Larches," in Cambridge, found great charm in the fine old mansion and its formal gardens. Magnificent apartments filled with precious heirloom furniture delighted the wedding guests. To those who are connoisseurs of Americana bridal festivities in such a setting was specially stimulating.

MANY OF THE WEDDING GUESTS FLOCKING INTO EMmanuel at noon for the Tudor-Stinson nuptials later in the afternoon, re-entered the same handsome churchly edifice to hear vows and pledges solemnly exchanged between Miss Frances Hall Dewart and Blake Cabot. After the religious rites were completed bride and bridegroom received their friends' good wishes at the Bay State rd. house the Dewarts have occupied this season. The Rev. William H. Dewart and Mrs. Dewart are the bride's parents, and Mrs. Follen Cabot is the bridegroom's mother.

SOFT CANDLE LIGHT AND 18TH CENTURY VELVETS AND laces please the eye as much as music delights the ear when the 18th Century Ensemble plays at the Try-out Theater this afternoon for the fourth Saturday concert. Mrs. Philip L. Hale has been asked to pour at the tea following the music. Mrs. Hale, by the bye, is mater to a most charming bride-to-be. Miss Nancy Hale is a picturesque young person, always beautifully frocked and hatted and accoutred for the occasion, be it dance, horse show or wedding.

MEMBERS' NIGHT AT THE TRY-OUT THEATER, MONDAY, June 11, is an innovation grafted by the "Young Invincibles" of the directorate onto the tree of theatrical production. Original one-act plays will be given. "Pan Speaking" is from the pen of Leighton Rollins. Miss Josephine Stranahan's contribution of originality is the "Road to London." And the directorate will also take the occasion to make some interesting announcements. "Members' Night" commences the third and final week of Try-Out Theater presentations.

"KNOLLWOOD" IN WORCESTER IS AN ENORMOUS COUNtry-like place, ideally perfect for a home wedding such as Miss Sarah Knowles and William Calhoun Gray have today. And "Knollwood" gardens provide just exactly the sylvan seclusion for al fresco reception and dancing. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Pierpont L. Stackpole, and achieved wedding bells and bridal satins during what is really her first year out. The bridegroom is Harvard, 1926, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gray of Dedham.

THE JOSEPH LEITER METEOR-LIKE PATH ACROSS SOCIAL skies sends off brilliant flashes. Washington is receiving the present illumination, and most scintillating it is. Mr. and Mrs. Leiter, celebrating 20 years o married life, entertain tomorrow at an enormous dinner, and this evening are honored guests at a similar grandial function, for which Senator Frederick Hale of Maine is host. The Leiters have a magnificent Virginia estate on the Potomac river, but now many of the Leiter functions take place in the Dupont Circle mansion inherited by Mr. Leiter from the merchant prince, his father.

Politeness With Peril

The caustic wit of W. S. Gilbert is not wholly contained in his current operas at the Shubert. After seeing a Beerbohm-Tree performance of "Hamlet," Lady Tree turned to Gilbert and asked him what he thought of it. "Well," said the great man, "I'll tell you, it was funny without being vulgar."

STAGE AND SCREEN

Needing a Thinking Cap?

Walter Huston, star of "Elmer the Great," at the Tremont, is convinced that this is a speedy age. Recently he met a circus friend who had just married a wire walker. He asked her name. "Now let me think," said the friend, putting his hand to his brow, "it'll come to me in a few seconds."

THEATERS YIELD TO TENTED ARENA

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THESE are valedictory days in the theater. The hard wrought Temples of Thespis are bending under the aggressions of the tented arena and boiling sarl. In another week all that will remain of the 1927-28 season of hopeful and expectant drama will be "Good News" and Irene Bordoni's none too sedate "Paris." Whereupon the inquisitive eye will engage itself in observing the ascendency of the Shuberts as the purveyors of speculative amusement during rising temperature. They will have the town bottled, corked, and packed for delivery.

FOR the first time in two years the combined Ringling-Barnum spectacle of assorted thrills and educational displays in the form of closely-penned beasts of the jungle will crowd the area in and about Sullivan sq. Novelties will prevail, you are informed: daring gymnasts will risk life and limb, the wildest of wild animals will roar and snort, and peanuts (short measure) will still remain the principal fare at standard circus prices. The same old circus in new dress and with new faces. A notable acquisition, however, will add its glitter to the Tuesday night performance; a new and distinguished clown will trod the sawdust lanes around the arena. George MacKinnon, locally known as the chief citizen of Scumtion, will lend his talents to Mr. Ringling for the night. He is ordered to duty as second assistant clown in the nonsense battalion.

Geo. McKinnon

BEFORE the night is ended Mr. MacKinnon, perhaps, will have earned new medals as a boy comic. As a columnist on a friendly newspaper he has drawn both praise and censure; as a funster he has been the first choice of Boy Scouts and the night clubs. Mr. MacKinnon's appearance will be as a non-professional. He insists that this be made public. As first citizen of Scumtion; as its most valiant life guard, and most persistent hogreeve, pound keeper and investigator of cellars, he prefers to play fair with his neighbors and friends rather than gain glory by subterfuge and double dealing. He will tolerate no assault upon his standing as an amateur.

UNDOUBTEDLY the saddest part of any circus is its clowns. Personally, they never have pleased us—or raised even a despairing giggle. Dazzling aerialists, in white, shining tights, have delighted the eye, as also have the gorgeous queens of horseback prancing around the three rings (count 'em), but we have yet to raise a titter at a circus clown. And so, we propose to favor Mr. MacKinnon with a critical but friendly view. He may turn himself into a Moses and lead the dusty Harlequins out of their misery and make them objects of scintillating joy. Of course, it is understood that all youngsters, either tender or gently aging, really enjoy the clowns and declare them the circus' best bet—next to peanuts and pale lemonade.

BIG CIRCUS IN MONDAY

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus will be at the Sullivan sq. show grounds for a six-day engagement, beginning Monday afternoon.

Sometime around dawn the first section of the one hundred-car train of the big circus will roll into town from Albany, N. Y. As fast as the four sections arrive they will be unloaded and the tons and tons of equipment, and thousands of animals, will be sent on their way to the show grounds.

The big circus has some thrilling new features this year, the outstanding one, both in point of size and interest being Goliath, the monster sea elephant. This huge elephant of the sea is 20 feet long, weighs four and a half tons and eats 400 pounds of fresh fish at each of his three daily meals. He was captured in the Antarctic, and is the first of his kind ever captured and exhibited alive.

Another new feature is "Yasso," the wonderful elephant. "Yasso" has been trained to carry its native Indian trainer in its mouth by his head.

Among the human thrill-producers are the Wallenda troupe of high-wire performers. The Wallendas are a family troupe consisting of three brothers and their pretty 17-year-old sister.

Shakespeare Beguiles Comedian's Spare Time

William Wayne, blond and genial funmaker of "Good News" at the Majestic, is submitting with all grace possible to the appellation of "serious-minded." While it is not easy to associate his stage character, that of the college boob, with the works of William Shakespeare, it is better to believe that any good comedian must lean heavily upo n incongruity—so the line about Shakespeare may stay in. Accept it, or not, therefore, that Mr. Wayne, after an evening of cutting silly capers in "Good News," ites him to the classics for that ...ee and recreation of the actor which the public of the Gay Nineties was pleased to regard as a continuous lobster supper. "Billy" Wayne insists that he does read Shakespeare, but he does not train exclusively on it. After all, he thinks, one should not too freely tamper with Gene Tunney's title in any way.

CECILE DIXON must be the girl referred to in that Billie Coppley farce of Norman Cannon's called "He Walked in Her Sleep."

"DOLLAR DAY" AT REVERE

Owing to rain, "Dollar Day" at Revere Beach is postponed until Wednesday, June 13. The combination ticket dated June 6 will be accepted on this date. The same program sponsored by the amusement division of the Revere Chamber of Commerce will be carried out on this day.

"Dollar Day" means a day of fun for visitors to the famous seashore resort. For the sum of $1, one may purchase a combination ticket entitling the holder to visit and enjoy no less than 31 of the leading amusement places dotting the boulevard.

Revere Beach boasts of many novel attractions for this season. The combination ticket for Wednesday, June 13, may be purchased at Filene's, Jordan's, Shepard's, Gilchrist's and Burke's Ticket Agency, 181 Tremont st. in this city, as well as at all of the amusement places in Revere, and may be used from noon until midnight.

Samuels Is Producing Richard Whorff Play

"The Pale Monarch," a romantic melodrama in four acts written by Richard Whorf, member of the E. E. Clive organization at the Copley Theater, will be given its first Boston production at the Peabody Playhouse on Monday evening, June 25. This piece, originally called "The Greatest Rogue" and produced last season by Louis Leon Hall in Providence, is being sponsored by John P. Samuels, who will subsequently present the play in New York City.

Film Futures

JUNE 15—
Emil Jannings in "The Street of Sin" at the Metropolitan.

JUNE 17—

JUNE 18—
Ramon Novarro in "Across to Singapore" at Loew's State.

JUNE 22—
Adolph Menjou in "His Tiger Lady" at the Metropolitan.

JUNE 25—
Lon Chaney in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh!" at Loew's State.

FILM FARE FOR NEW WEEK

METROPOLITAN—Rod La Rocque in "Hold 'Em, Yale!" (first run), adapted from Owen Davis' play, "At Yale." Comedy drama of university life, with a young Argentinian getting an education. Cast includes Jeanette Loff, Tom Kennedy and Joseph Cawthorn. Edward H. Griffith directed. A Pathe picture. On stage, R. H. Burnside's "Hobohemia" revue with Rodemich bandshow.

LOEW'S ORPHEUM—Marion Davies in "The Patsy," adapted from Barry Connors' clever farce wherein takes place an uproarious comedy drama of the revolt of Pa, the subjugation of Ma and the victory of Sis. The cast includes Del Henderson, Lawrence Gray, Orville Caldwell and Mario Dressler. King Vidor directed. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. Also vaudeville.

LOEW'S STATE—Dolores Del Rio in "Ramona" (first run), adapted from Helen Hunt Jackson's best-selling novel of a generation ago. Dealing with the awakening of the public to the wrongs suffered by the American Indian in the West. Cast includes Warner Baxter, Roland Drew, Vera Lewis and Michael Visaroff. Edwin Carewe directed. A United Artists' picture. On stage, Marion Vadis and Ota Gygi and their orchestra.

NEW BOSTON—(Starting Monday) Virginia Valli in "The Escape" (first run), adapted from the Paul Armstrong play. More of the underworld, its guns and its gangsters. Cast includes William Russell, Nancy Drexel, George Meeker and William Demarest. Richard Rosson directed. A William Fox picture. Also vaudeville.

OLYMPIA AND SCOLLAY—(Starting tomorrow) Billie Dove in "The Yellow Lily" (first run), adapted from the stage play by Lajos Biro. Romantic drama of the once glittering court of Emperor Charles of Hungary. Cast includes Clive Brook, Jane Winton, Marc McDermott and Gustave von Seyffertitz. Alexander Korda directed. A First National picture. Also vaudeville at both houses.

FENWAY—(Starting today) Pola Negri in "Three Sinners" and Sammy Cohen in "Why Sailors Go Wrong."
Starting Wednesday, Billie Dove in "The Heart of a Follies Girl."

NIPPED IN NIPPON

THE JAP CHAP in Fred Wright whose Jibes and Japes as the rococo Ko Ko of "The Mikado" cause him much pain—and the audience acute joy. You will snicker at his little snickersnees. (Shubert.)

Ranch Boss

COL. GEORGE MILLER cracks the biggest whip in the 101 Ranch Wild West Show which is due at Andrew Square on June 18.

MILLER WILD WEST SHOW

When Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Circus pitches its tents on far Andrew square circus lot, June 18th, it will bring to Boston many historical and educational features. This year's contingent of Indians will introduce Chiefs Black-Horn, Walks-Under-Ground, Tall-Bull, Crow-Killer Indian and Two Bears, all of whom are historically famous.

Col. George L. Miller, one of the original three Miller Brothers, owners of the 101 Ranch in Oklahoma, is in command of the show.

The 101 Ranch is one of the show places of the Great Southwest. Not so long ago, buffalo roamed over this vast tract of land, but advancement came. First it was the vanishing of the buffalo, and later the elimination of the cattlemen who lead to supremacy.

The Miller Brothers followed all of these changes. It was in reality a march of civilization and progress, which the Miller Brothers met, joined and led.

VAUDEVILLE CHANGES

LOEW'S ORPHEUM—Janet France, comedienne, in "La Comedie Millinaire"; the McKee and O'Connor quizzical revue; Sam Hearn, monologuist, as "The Political Feller"; Fain and Dunn, song writers; other turns and the photoplay, Marion Davies in "The Patsy."

NEW BOSTON—Prince Ali, Hindu mystic; Charles Mack and company in a comedy skit; Barto and Clark in "The Mile Shoot"; Frank Viola and girls in "An Artistic Comedy Novelty"; Ned Norworth as master of ceremonies; other turns and films.

SCOLLAY—Al Noda girls, acrobatic; Frankson, "The Man of a Hundred Characters"; McNeece and Ridge, roller skaters; the Morton Beck Musical Comedy Boys; other turns and films.

OLYMPIA—Galla-Rini and Sister, versatile musicians; Bob and Margie Du Pont, comedians, in "Quaint Acquaintances"; other turns and films.

B. F. KEITH'S—Joseph Roncan, "Boston's Silver Tenor"; Al Shean and Lyn Cantor in "Business Is Business"; "Maddock's Tricks," musical extravaganza; Joe Browning, comedian, in "A Timely Sermon," and others.

COLLEGE FUN ON SCREEN AT "MET"

"Hold 'Em, Yale," the new film at the Metropolitan, is by way of retaliation for "Brown of Harvard." In the new film Rod La Rocque divides his honors with Jeanette Loff, a charming newcomer to the screen, and a continuity that seems to have had small consideration for anybody or anything. The piece is made out to be a comedy drama, but particularly when it is supposed to be drama it inadvertently becomes funny. Other persons inextricably connected with the strange affair are Tom Kennedy as dull New York cop and Lawrence Grant playing Mr. La Rocque's well worried dad.

Jeanette Loff

The idea seems to be that La Rocque, as a young chap just up from the Argentine, goes to Old Eli for an education. While there he "takes up" boxing, but he drops it quickly enough when a hefty smasher from Cambridge drops him smartly to the canvas.

But just to prove his mettle, the fighting kid from the pampas must needs leap clear of his bed in the hospital toralnot advice, you know) and dash for the football field just in time to cheer his way through the Princeton liner for a Yale victory.

Those who know how often this sort of thing occurs in college life are apt to snicker a bit at "Hold 'Em, Yale." When they are not laughing outright, for there is indeed plenty of things to amuse the spectator whether he is "wise" to them or not.

On stage at the "Met" there is a fine and comic production entitled "Hobohemia." It is rife with good fun, pleasant comedians, the Faeno boys and girls, and, of course, the genial performance of the Rodemich band.

NORUMBEGA PARK

Leon's Pony, Monkey and Dog Circus is the leading attraction at Norumbega Park next week. There is also a bill of pictures and vaudeville in the open air theater, and assorted midway amusements.

LAST TIMES FOR SAVOY OPERAS

One more week remains of the musical festival at the Shubert where the Gilbert and Sullivan operas are being given under Winthrop Ames' sponsorship.

The company which sang and played "The Mikado" this week will give the repertory of three operas in this order next week: Monday night and Friday night and Wednesday matinee, "Iolanthe;" Tuesday and Thursday nights and Saturday matinee, "The Pirates of Penzance;" Wednesday and Saturday nights, "The Mikado."

Helena Hall will have the name part in "Iolanthe," the fairy mother. Her half mortal son, the Arcadian shepherd, Strephon, will be sung by William Williams. Vera Ross will be the Queen of the Fairies added and abetted by Virginia Fox, Suissabell Sterling and Paula Lenglen, prominent fairies of fairyland. In the roles of the mortals will be Fred Wright, as the Lord Chancellor, John Barclay as Earl of Mountararat; William C. Gordon as Private Willis; J. Humbird Duffey as Earl Tolloller and George C. Lenrian as the train-bearer.

In "The Pirates of Penzance" the pirate chief, Richard, will be impersonated by John Barclay with J. Humbird Duffy acting as his lieutenant, Samuel William Williams will sing and play the role of Frederic to a pirate instead of a pilot, Ross in the character of the nursemaid who apprentices young Frederic to a pirate instead of a pilot, thereby causing much ado. Fred Wright will be Major-General Stanley with George C. Lehrian and William C. Gordon in the respective parts of the Major-General's orderly and Edward, a sergeant of police. General Stanley's daughters will be played by Lois Bennett, Suissabell Sterling, Virginia Fox, Bettina Hall and Paula Lenglen.

BOWDOIN BILL

Lillian Gish heads the show at the Bowdoin Square in her latest film, "The Enemy." Another picture is "Midnight Madness," with Jacqueline Logan. There is also vaudeville.

DOUBLE EXPOSURE

"MY EYE!" exclaims the camera peevishly, "what do they take me for; some day I'm gonna quit being an innocent bystander!" Do Nick Stuart and Sally Phipps care? ("The News Parade" at the Modern.)

COMMON CARRIERS

Why Not Music for This?

The "personality plus" philosophy of Marion Davies' new comedy character, "The Patsy," now to be seen at the Orpheum, would have aided the weary ones in C. C. Pyle's "bunion derby." "When your feet get tired from jogging, just think what a nice ride the rest of you gets for nothing."

STAGE AND SCREEN

Add to Useless Pastimes

To Louise Closser Hale falls most of the mischief and many bright lines in "Paris," at the Wilbur. "Why Mother!" exclaims her stiffly respectable "son," "it's plain to be seen you've been drinking." "Well," she replies airily, "what's the use of drinking if it has no visible effect?"

MUST BE SEEN TO BE APPRECIATED

NEW FILMS ARE COMICAL, TRAGICAL, PASTORAL, HISTORICAL AND COLLEGIATE

THE DARWINIAN THEORY is among the subjects Rod La Rocque takes up in "Hold 'Em, Yale" at the Metropolitan. But Jerry Mandy insists that you can't make a monkey out of HIM. Nevertheless, Mr. La Rocque seems to have his doubts.

LIFE IS SUCH A TRIAL these days! Here is Virginia Valli after a hard day of visiting, literally exhausted from deciding whether to take her tea with lemon or sugar. She is disgusted, too, with the butler for saying that dinner is served. ("The Escape," New Boston.)

INDIAN MEAL? Granddaddies had told us of the habits of the barbarians, but we never believed they would eat up little girls! Those poore pioneers certainly had to put up with an awful lot. (Warner Baxter and Dolores Del Rio in "Ramona," State.)

HUNGARIAN RHAPSODY played with cross hands. Take house a cop and try it on your baby grand. In "The Yellow Lily" Clive Brook and Billie Dove pleasantly foregather with the laughing song and pledge never to take the pledge. (Olympia and Scollay.)

'RAMONA' ACCEPTING ANOTHER CHANCE

By LEO GAFFNEY

LIKE the tried and true joke, an entertaining film story is always good. For the third time since the birth of the movies Helen Hunt Jackson's "Ramona" has been thrust into film. Some 16 years ago D. W. Griffith, that rugged pioneer, made a one-reel "Ramona" with Mary Pickford in the title role; none less a person than Mack Sennett was the bold, bad villain, and Henry B. Walthall in a set of pin feathers and a coat of mahogany stain was the red Injun, Alessandro. Subsequently there was a super-super "Ramona" given in 15 long and dreary chapters, of which the less said the better. The latest "Ramona" comes to Loew's State next week decked out with a million dollars' worth of California scenery, Dolores Del Rio, a theme song and a set of emotions to match.

BECAUSE the motion picture is about to become generally audible, the next time to do "Ramona" will be with sound. By that time the cinema will have been launched upon its new era and many strange things will be in evidence. No doubt the next "Ramona" will be a photo-phonic grand opera with Indian ballet and a vaudeville comedian or two thrown in as extra trimming. This may seem like too much imagination, but "The Desert Song," popular operetta of the past two seasons, is already in production—from the leading soprano down to the bass drum.

WHILE it is inconceivable that Boston will ever supplant Hollywood in the production of film drama, it is not beyond possibility that some phases of the business might swing this way. The positive furore the sounding devices are causing in the film industry are precipitating startling innovations. The movie actor must add to his accomplishments. Besides his required ability to ride, swim, shoot, play the piano, stand on his head, make love and weep, the film player of the new school will have to be able to talk English and sing. Because Boston is conspicuously rich in these last mentioned facilities why not a couple of studios in the Back Bay? Right now in New York a big West Coast producer is rigging up a shop in which to make sounding film features, and they say that musical directors and various chorus groups are being enlisted. All this for the once silent drama!

AS if to counteract the commotion of the sounding cinema there remains what is perhaps the most unusual motion picture theater in the world—operated up to now, at least, with an almost complete absence of sound. It is Billy Miller's place in St. Louis. The "theater" is contained within the Union Station, the place where all the railroads and all the travelers of the city converge. There, while waiting for your train, you may sit and watch a movie and not be disturbed by so much as a musical accompaniment. For awhile, Monsieur Billy used to turn on the radio, but the customers didn't care for it at all, so the show returned to serene silence; and what is more, the place has been prospering for more than six years.

WHILE the industry is agog over its many modern improvements, this column is going to venture out with something of its own. We have in mind the kiskless closeup. As soon as perfected the device will revolutionize, not to say paralyze, the industry. It is expected to prove sightunsuccessful.

Indian Mystic Heads New Show Policy at Boston

Prince Ali, noted as a seer in India, headlines the new eight-act vaudeville policy at the Keith-Albee Boston next week. The prince is said to be a direct descendant of a famous family of mentalists. For generations his forbears have been credited with the secrets of the Vogis, secrets jealously guarded in the family and handed down from father to son during the ages. Prince Ali is an East Indian potentate, being of the same tribe as the Maharajah. This is his first American appearance. The change in policy at the Keith-Albee Boston is inaugurated with "Carnival Week." From now on at the Boston the bill will be strengthened each week and a new and lower scale of prices put into effect.

Prince Ali

Margaret Anglin to Bring "Electra" to Providence

It was in the Hearst Greek Theater at Berkeley, Cal., the seat of the University of California, that Margaret Anglin made her first appearances as an interpreter of the classic Greek heroines.

Her coming presentation of "Electra," June 26 and 27, in the natural amphitheater of Roger Williams Park, Providence, R. I., under the sponsorship of the Providence Music League, is Miss Anglin's first open-air production in the East.

"Barrymore of Hungary in New Pola Negri Film

Paul Lukas, known as "The Barrymore of Hungary," plays an important role in Pola Negri's new starring picture for Paramount, "Three Sinners," which will show at the Fenway theater next week.

"Three Sinners," which was directed by Rowland V. Lee, who directed Miss Negri in "Barbed Wire," is a story of European life which has an extremely unusual character.

The role of Count Dietrich is played by Lukas, who gave a very remarkable performance opposite Miss Negri in another one of her recent pictures.

Marion Davies Mimics Film Stars in "Patsy"

Marion Davies' ability as a mimic is one of the features of her new picture, "The Patsy," which shows Monday at the Orpheum.

In one sequence of the picture, Miss Davies, to attract the man of her heart, dresses and disguises herself as various motion picture stars. Included in the list are Pola Negri, Mae Murray and Lillian Gish. Her take-off on each of those famous screen ladies was a gem of its kind. In make-up, mood and gesture she catches the spirit of her sister stars.

Monte Blue, star of "Brass Knuckles," at the Modern and Beacon, tells of Little Percival and the Cowboy in Hollywood. Says the precious lad: "I've always wanted to live the wild, free life of a cowboy like I've seen in pictures." And thus, at great length, spake the brave cowboy: "So would I."

Making Both Ends Meet

Unlike the many playwrights who shoot their artistic arrows into the air, not knowing where they are to land, Norman Cannon was shrewd enough to have his new play produced at the Copley. As the actor-author of "He Walked in Her Sleep," Mr. Cannon acquires both salary and royalties.

STAGE SENDS NATALIE TO THE FILMS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

CHICAGO, June 9—You never can tell when the eye of a Hollywood producer is going to light on a movie candidate. Here in Chicago, Natalie Moorehead, statuesque blonde and a young woman with regal carriage, was espied by a Hollywood director. "There," he said, "is one girl who knows how to step out of a Rolls-Royce as if she owned one. I am going to see that she gets a chance to do it in the movies."

Miss Moorehead, playing opposite Grant Mitchell, in George Cohan's production of "Baby Cyclone," hadn't an idea in the world that in Chicago, many miles from Hollywood, she would get a movie offer. So, when it came, she was surprised and delighted and she accepted pronto.

Now when the show closes, she will hi. the trail to Hollywood and try to prove that she can play Hedda Hopper roles in the Hedda Hopper approved style. Famous Players-Paramount is the company.

MACK SENNETT'S bright little ingenue, Sally Eilers, hasn't made a picture since she starred in the "Good-by Kiss," principally because Mack was not willing to have her accept a role that he did not consider worthy of her talents.

Now they tell me in Hollywood that Sally will share feminine honors with Mary Astor in "Dry Martini." She is a cute little trick, with a smile that ought to go good in Harry D'Arrast's picture.

JACK CASEY writes that nobody gives a care whether the Billy Doves of Hollywood wear makeup or not to the Montemartre. He believes that Hollywood is only of interest to people who live in California.

Poor Casey. He's been neglected in the matter of letters, or else he could write that. His articles appearing in the Chicago Daily News are amusing, because they are so evidently an effort to be satirical. These writers who come to Hollywood and spend a few weeks and return east thinking they have seen everything there is to see, and know all there is to know, would be surprised at just they have missed.

As for some of us who live in Hollywood, the farther we get away from the sunshine and the people the more we appreciate what it means to have the privilege of living in God's country.

Sounds Pollyanna, perhaps, but I have been watching the rain for two days from my window at the Congress Hotel, and at this moment I am appreciating California more than I ever did in my life.

Hollywood Chamber of Commerce please copy.

I RECKON F. M. Murnau had a change of heart when it came time to go abroad, for now some of my friends write me that he is to take only two weeks' vacation. He will spend it boating, returning to begin work on "Our Daily Bread"—that's the new name for "Mud Turtle." It is going to be filmed in the wheat fields of Kansas.

Bets are on that Mary Duncan will get the lead, although Janet Gaynor was a likely prospect up to a few weeks ago. Now Janet is slated to play the lead in "The River," W. K. Howard's next "opera."

By the way, Howard's contract has been taken over by the Fox Company. That means one more director out of the De Mille company.

THE East is curious to know if Hollywood is taking the talking movies seriously. I can only repeat what one of our well-known producers said: "Talking pictures are here to stay and they mean the necessity for readjusting the entire picture business."

First National's first talkie is "The Squall," a well-known stage play. The producers seem to favor stage plays for their sound experiments. I suppose it is safer than taking a play that was written primarily for the movies. Wid Gunning will supervise "The Squall," also three specials of the thriller type, "The Haunted House," "The Octopus" and "Seven Footprints to Satan."

PALS ON A PALFREY POISED

SISTERS OF THE SIDE-SADDLE are Mitzi and Rose Reiffenach, airy equestriennes with the incoming Ringling Circus which appears Monday at the Sullivan sq. grounds. On Dobbin's broad back they are as much at home as your little Esmeralda on her rocking horse.

Paris Styles Created by Tourists, Says Bordoni

"Part of the price one must pay for fame is that one can never quite escape it." The statement is equally true of cities as it is of people, says Irene Bordoni, the star, of "Paris," at the Wilbur. Because Paris has been famed for years for its feminine styles, it must continue to accept the credit to say nothing of the abuse for the many crimes committed in the name of vanity.

"It is not Paris," says Miss Bordoni, "but rather the world-at-large that creates what the average woman will wear. Each summer thousands of women drag their unwilling husbands to France and, once there, instead of accepting the dictates of Parisian fashion experts, they immediately insist that the tailors and dressmakers alter their accepted styles to suit their own ideas. The result is that they return to America or their homes elsewhere with gowns bearing Paris labels which, aside from that particular, resemble in no manner the Parisian of clothes and styles.

"I do not dress for the crowd, but rather for myself, even though this means a departure from the accepted mode of the day. Not that I advocate that a woman should make herself conspicuous, but I do insist that individuality is the greatest distinguishing mark of the well dressed woman."

DIRECTOR IS EDITOR

Alexander Korda, famous Hungarian director who made Ruthie Dove's starring picture, "The Yellow Lily," coming to the Olympia and Scollay next week, is an ex-newspaper man. He edited a daily in Budapest, Hungary, before becoming famous as a director of German film offerings.

NEW DIX FILM

Richard Dix will make "Redskin" as his next picture. It is to be produced on an elaborate scale and is expected to be one of the outstanding specials on the new season's program. Production will begin soon. The story deals with the present day American Indian.

Walter Huston Takes His Share of Hard Knocks

It is well-proven in the theater that great actors are born and not made, but like other raw material there is a process of refining and reshaping. In the case of Walter Huston, whom George M. Cohan has starred in "Elmer the Great," at the Tremont, vaudeville proved to be the medium which he claims brought him nearer to stardom than any other training he has ever had. "Most actors who have been through the mill will agree with me," he says, "that their is no better school of experience than the so-called 'college of hard knocks'—vaudeville. Every night was an opening night to me when I trouped the country with the smallest of small-time circuits. In 'Fast Company' we behind the footlights can expect a laugh at the same line or situation night after night, but in vaudeville, oh, boy!

Marion Davies in "The Patsy"

Patsy Is Here Monday!

Patsy will give you the laugh of your life. Once she used to see big sister get all the gravy of life while she got only the scrapings. Even her wise old Pappy couldn't help her, though he would hold her hand, or her head! Then, all of a sudden, she got wise to herself. She began to make whoopee in a big way—and soon she had all men eating out of her hand.

TRACE MISSING CREW MAN TO NEW LONDON

New London, Ct., June 9—In the belief that his son, William Wayne Neff, missing Harvard University junior, is in this city, Nettleton Neff, Chicago millionaire, came here today from Cambridge to direct the search for him. Young Neff is thought to be suffering from mental trouble.

Upon arrival here today Mr. Neff learned from investigators that a young man answering his son's description has been seen by several persons, riding on trolley cars.

The father was informed that his son left Boston Monday afternoon by train for New London in connection with his duties as manager of the Harvard varsity crew, but left the train at Westerly, R. I. He was told that the conductor told him his ticket read New London and that the youth replied that he knew that but was not going to ride further.

Young Neff was traced to Stonington, Ct., where he registered at an inn and had dinner Monday night. Minus baggage he boarded a trolley car for New London early that evening. He told the conductor of the trolley car he was in a hurry to get to New York and was planning to take the 8.28 p. m. train from New London.

Safety Drive Cuts Auto Death Toll

sets in May of this year how many children were killed in other Mays?

In 1924 there were 23 children killed.
In 1925 there were 22.
In 1926 there were 25.
In 1927 there were 25.
And remember that in May of this year there were ONLY fifteen children killed.

When we consider that there are thousands—tens of thousands and even hundreds of thousands more cars on the roads this year than in the years mentioned above, there is EVERY REASON TO BE PROUD of the record of the month of May just passed.

Now let us see what the record is for the city of Boston.

Here we do not have to use the word "ONLY" because in the ENTIRE MONTH OF MAY this year NOT A CHILD WAS KILLED by an automobile.

How much the Mothers' Safety Don'ts campaign had to do with this result is impossible to determine. Let the reader use his own judgment after reading the following records:

In the months preceding May this year we find that two children were killed in Boston in January; three in February; five in March and three in April.

AND IN MAY THERE WAS NONE.

Let us look at the records from another angle. In 1924 there were five children killed in Boston in May, two killed that month in 1925, seven in 1926 and five in 1927, and, as we have said before, NO CHILD KILLED IN BOSTON IN MAY 1928.

Now that the Mothers' Safety Don'ts campaign is over and we are no longer constantly impressing upon mothers the necessity for preaching safety to their children we hope the mothers will NOT FORGET the lesson they learned during this drive.

If they want to repeat for the month of June and every month in the year the wonderful record of May, 1928, they MUST remember that ETERNAL WARNINGS are the PRICE OF SAFETY.

ADMIT MELLON HOLDS KEY TO HOOVER'S FATE

is defeatist talk that borders on party disloyalty."

Between these two opposing lines the verbal battle continued today on all fronts with tempers ruffled and the usual candidatorial rivalry embittered.

It is into such a situation that Andrew W. Mellon will step on Monday. Probably no Republican convention ever waited for an individual with so much impatience and real concern.

The diminutive secretary of the treasury, taciturn, shy, uncommunicative, admittedly holds the key to the nomination. If he turns it one way it is Hoover; if he turns it the other way it isn't Hoover—or so, at least, the leaders on both sides figure it. And the correctness of the summary is conceded by all neutral observers.

MUST HAVE PENNSYLVANIA

The 76 votes that Mellon reputedly holds have become all important. Without them Hoover's nomination becomes a matter of real doubt; with them his nomination is assured.

It might be possible to nominate Hoover here next week without a vote from Pennsylvania, but few believe it—and that includes the Hoover managers, bristling as they are with confidence. Count as they will—and do—they can't figure themselves "in" without the help of Mellon, for they know that if Mellon stays outside the Hoover column he will keep others out, too.

The fear of the Hoover managers lies in what they privately admit is their "fluid strength," this is, 160 votes that are perfectly willing to go along with Hoover so long as he appears to be the likely nominee. But these votes are sensitive, undependable beyond the third ballot, and likely to be very transitory beyond that point.

ALLIES ARE CONFIDENT.

Hence the drive and the insistence of the Hoover managers to "do it quickly." Hence the determination of the hard pressed allies to hold the line fast in the early balloting.

The allies appear to be making headway, although how much is conjectual. The confidence of the allies in their ability to "stop Hoover" is increasing. For example, Mrs. Ruth McCormick, the generalissimo of the coalition, said today:

"Thursday I would have said that Hoover would win if he got Pennsylvania's votes, but today I will not concede even that. Mr. Hoover will not be nominated.

"There appears to be a growing certainty that Coolidge is to have at least 150 votes, on the first ballot, from New York, New England, Cook County, Illinois, and perhaps a few southern states. The Lowden people figure on 230 for themselves, and there are enough favorite sons scattered about to make up the blocking majority, according to the allies' computation.

Farmers Mobilizing on G. O. P. Elephant Hunt

Chicago, June 9 (AP)—First rumbles of what their leaders said would be the greatest farmer demonstration of the age were heard today in Nebraska.

A caravan of a dozen automobiles whose occupants said they were "jumping the starting gun" for the army of farmers, passed through Omaha en route to Kansas City. The vanguard was from Lead, S. D.

Throughout the corn belt section other companies were planning to join the march, which they planned as a means of emphasizing to the Republican National Convention the needs of agriculture.

Another report from Mark Woods, Lincoln, (Neb.) farmer, was that 1000 farmers had started from North Dakota in 100 automobiles. Additional groups from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Colorado, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Montana were awaiting the word to start.

from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., because of the poor condition of the runway as well as because of fog.

Repairs to the runway are being rushed, dispatches state, and it now appears almost certain that Miss Boll is contemplating a non-stop flight from New York instead of a stop at Old Orchard Beach, Me., to refuel.

From Trespassey comes the report that Miss Earhart is visibly worried at the new obstacles piling up before her. A week ago tomorrow she hopped off from Boston, hoping by now to be in England.

But adverse weather has met her on every hand. Pilot Stultz and Lou Gordon, mechanic, also are obviously distressed at their failure thus far to get on their way.

LOWELL TEACHER ASKS $50,000 FOR LOSS OF LEG

Haverhill, June 9—Claiming damages of $50,000, Miss Mary E. Conlon, a school teacher, of 9 South Williams st., Bradford district, has filed suit in the Superior Court at Salem against the Boston & Maine Railroad for injuries she received at Lowell December 28, 1926, while she was a student at the Lowell Normal School.

She alleges she forgot to purchase a ticket and the conductor advised her she would have time to get one. She bought the ticket and hurrying to board the moving train, slipped beneath the wheels, her leg being cut off below the knee.

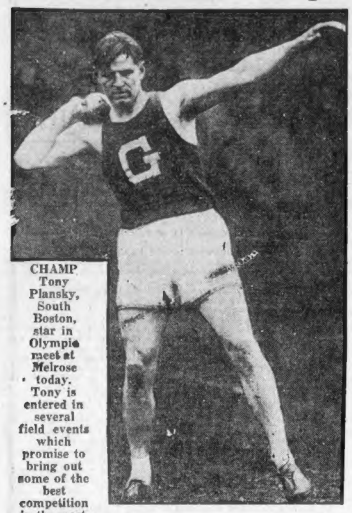
Melrose Games Sift Olympic Prospects Today

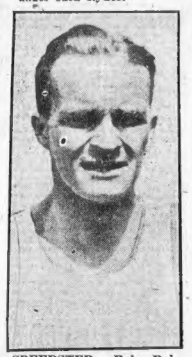


CHAMP Tony Plansky, South Boston, star in Olympic meet at Melrose today. Tony is entered in several field events which promise to bring out some of the best competition in the meet.

2-MILE STAR. George Lermond, B. A. A. distance runner, another luminary in the Melrose meet, is almost sure of a place on the Olympic team. He is brother of Leo Lermond, great 2 and 3-miler. George is training at Boston College under Jack Ryder.

HITTING IT UP. The varsity crew of Columbia University is sprinting in practice for the intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie. The race is the premier event of the rowing year. The crews are all at top form with the Olympic trip in sight for the best eight of the season. Dick Glendon, Jr., has done marvels with his rowers. They will battle against his father's Navy group.

WILL HELP BRITANNIA RULE THE WAVES. Left to right: Winifred Mercer, Canada; Miss Belle White, England, and Miss W. Smith, England, should splash to a place in the Olympic competition.



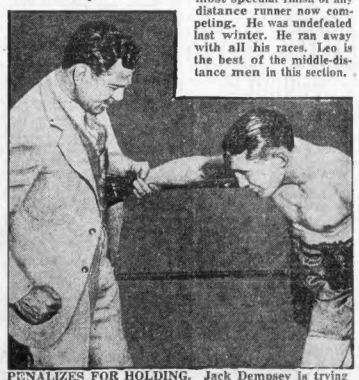
SPEEDSTER. Bob Dalrymple has come to the front fast in the last few months. The B. A. A. star is at the top of his form at present. He will race at Melrose today.

GREAT FINISHER. Leo Lermond has about the most specular finish of any distance runner now competing. He was undefeated last winter. He ran away with all his races. Leo is the best of the middle-distance men in this section.

AT THE TOP. Maureen Orcutt drove, pitched and putted her way to the Eastern women's golf title this week. She is a great golfer. Maureen could defeat most of the men players.

RUNNER-UP. Helen Payson of Portland, Me., and Canadian woman champ, lost out in the finals of the Montclair tourney to Miss Orcutt.

RECORDS MEAN NOTHING TO THEM. On the left, Helen Filkey, who lowered the 60-yard low hurdle record. Her teammate, Elizabeth Robinson, took just 12 seconds to cover the 100-metre dash. The girls are getting nearer the men's records all the time. The so-called equality of the sexes may become a fact.



PENALIZES FOR HOLDING. Jack Dempsey is trying a new method of stopping a punch. He would have a tough time holding Mushy Callahan's wrist if he had the leather pillows on. Callahan is one of the present day pugilistic favorites. He can step around with the best in his class.

SIX-POINT STAR. Armand Emanuel, Pacific Coast star, beat out Bold Michael McTigue this week. The Jewish heavyweight contender is forging to the front rapidly. He should get a shot at the big money soon.

KING OF THE TIMBER TOPPERS. F. Morgan Taylor, Olympic hurdle champ, is in better form than ever, as this photo shows. That left leg will snap down and the right limb just shave, and the star will be off to the next barrier in a flash. Taylor has a chance to repeat at Amsterdam this summer. He won at Paris four years ago.

AGAIN PRESIDENT. Mrs. C. H. Baker, who competed in the Montclair tourney, was re-elected head of the Eastern Women's Golf Association this week. She has proven an efficient leader.

Upset in Oakley 4-Ball Tourney

By BILL GRIMES.

In the semifinal round of the Oakley Country Club four-ball best-ball invitation, Dick Breen and Billy Munsell of Oakley defeated Perley F. Crosby of Woodland and Joe Lynch of Blue Hill, which team was favored to win, 5 and 4.

Tommy Welch of Scarboro and Bill Donnelly, the 15-year-old Woodland boy, eliminated W. D. Swan of Oakley and Ray Gordon of Brae Burn 2 up.

Breed and Munsell teamed up beautifully and their steady brand of golf completely upset Crosby and Welch. Breed and Munsell were out in 38, against Crosby and Lynch's 39, and had a four-hole advantage starting home. In the Welch-Donnelly vs. Swan-Gordon match the Scarboro-Woodland team turned in their best exhibition of the tournament.

ONE UNDER PAR.

They were one under par going out and with the exception of the 17th hole, where they took a 5, they were even pars home. The feature of this match was that with the exception of the fourth hole, where Billy Donnelly canned a birdie 3 for a win, every hole from the first through the 18th was halved in par 4's. Donnelly was 73 with his own ball.

Breed and Munsell jumped into the lead at the second hole, which they won with a 4, and Munsell's 3 on the short turn put them 3 up. After they all got birdies on the long fourth, Crosby and Welch won the fifth with a 4, when Munsell put his second over the green.

But the Oakley youngsters went back to 2 up by winning the seventh with a 3, and then Breen dropped a seven-foot putt for a birdie 3 and a win on the eighth, and followed with a 4 on the ninth, which made them 4 up on the turn.

Munsell won the long 10th with a 4, when Crosby's putt stopped on the lip of the cup and then the Woodlander ran in a 3 on the 11th by dropping a 6-foot putt, but Breed won the 12th and came through with another birdie on the 13th and went back to 5 up and the match ended when they halved the 14th with 3.

Bill Donnelly's birdie 4 on the long fourth dropped Swan and Gordon back a hole and such a steady brand of golf as was offered by Welch and Donnelly made it impossible for the Oakleys-Brae Burn team to square matters.

GREAT PLAYER.

The story of this match aside from the 4th hole centers around the last 4 holes. Welch's putt for a 3, to half the 15th with Gordon had considerable bearing on the final outcome of this match.

Going to the 16th, Donnelly and Welch were right on the table, but both Swan and Gordon hooked into the rough and took 3 to get home. Donnelly and Welch were just driving with their second, but chipped dead and got their 4 which won the hole as neither Swan or Gordon were able to get down with 1 putt.

Going to the 17th they were all home with their second excepted. Donnelly whose drive was buried, but the Woodland boy put his third 10 feet from the cup but lost the hole to Gordon's 4, as Swan ran by with his approach putt and missed coming back.

Donnelly was home 15 feet from the cup with his second going to the home hole and won it with a 4 as Gordon's 2nd was over and his 3rd just on.

Wright Sails To Seek Title

Montreal, June 9 (AP)—Joe Wright, Jr., young Canadian oarsman, who missed victory in the diamond sculls on the River Thames last year by a margin of one boom, sailed for England today with Jack Guest, Toronto star, to compete again in the annual classic before entering the single sculls race at Amsterdam.

Wright won his way to the final heat in 1927 and was coasting home with a length lead when one of his oars fouled a buoy. Before he could break away his opponent, R. T. Lee of Oxford, swept across the finish line.

Wright, a favorite to win the sculls this year, will compete with Guest for singles honors in the Olympic regatta. They will team for the doubles.

Strong Man to Give Exhibition Tonight

John Y. Smith, New England champion strong man will give an exhibition of his strength tonight at the B. Y. M. C. U., 48 Boylston st. John, is celebrating his 62d birthday by giving the exhibition.

He is open to meet any man in the six feats of strength which won him the title and out to better his mark of a total of 2755 pounds on these lifts. Smith even goes better when he says, "I will wager $500 that three years from now when I reach my 65th birthday, I will break my own record."

Fights Last Night

(By the Associated Press)

New York—Phil Medley, Detroit, defeated Bobby Burns, Brooklyn (10).

Chicago—Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco, beat Billy Light, St. Paul (8). Floyd Herbert, Cleveland, outpointed Sully Sullivan, St. Paul (8). Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City, Ia., beat Tommy O'Brien, Billings, Mont. (6). Kerr Rankin, El Paso, defeated Jimmy Mahoney, Chicago (6).

Erie, Pa.—Chick Suggs, New Bedford, Mass., defeated Johnny Ryan, Erie (10). Johnny Gipps, Buffalo, won from Frankie Fay, Cleveland (6).

Kansas City—"Big Bill" Hartwell, Kansas City, knocked out Larry Saint, Toronto (6).

MIKE STILL HAS PUNCH

EMANUEL ON FLOOR

Armand Emanuel, considered by some a coming light heavyweight champ, is pictured on the floor in the first round in his bout with Mike McTigue. The West Coast battler survived the stanza and won the decision. He will perhaps keep his chin out of the way in the future.

INTERNATIONAL BIKE RACE TONIGHT

With athletes of four countries listed to battle over the boards at the Revere cycle track tonight, the 40-mile motor paced race takes on an international tinge.

United States, Holland, Italy and Belgium will all be represented, when Frankie Keenan, Revere; George Chapman, Newark; Rene Boogman, Holland; Henri Wynsdau, Belgium, and Franco Georgetti, Italy, meet.

Georgetti seems to be the favorite with the bike fans to cop the race, with Keenan picked to finish in the runner-up position.

Little Rene Boogman will be given a big cheer when he goes to the starting mark. Boogman is unquestionably one of the grittiest and pluckiest in the whole sport world.

His left arm is practically paralized, and he rides with only one hand.

Under the 40-mile paced race will be a special sprint match. Three riders are entered in this event, to be decided in three heats of one mile each, and the winner to be decided on points.

John Bruskie, Hoboken; Chick Meyers, Providence, and Frank Bartell, Newark, are the entries.

Before the sprints and paced race the usual contests for amateur and professional riders will be run off.

Brown's Consecutive Record Is Broken

When the Braves took their positions in the field thousands of fans were surprised to miss Big Ed Brown in center.

In his place was Jack Smith, who had nothing to do in the field, but did plenty with his stick. This substitution put a sudden end to Brownie's National League record for consecutive games, a string he had run to 615.

This change was no reflection on Brown, but it was a sort of tryout for Smith, whose status has been in question of late, and who has been mentioned recently in possible trades.

Victorian Picked to Win Belmont

New York, June 9 (NNS)—Victorian, winner of the Preakness, is a 1 to 3 favorite to win the $72,000 Belmont, richest of America's three-year-old stakes, at Belmont Park this afternoon. Harry Payne Whitney's great thoroughbred so dominates the field that only four horses—Vito, Diavola, Gerit and Sun Beau—will run against him over the mile and a half course.

The winner of the classic will receive $64,180 and the second horse $7,500. In the National Stallion Stakes, the secondary feature, 14 smart two-year-olds will race for purses aggregating $29,000. Whitney is also favored to win this event with Zeona and Bargello.

EXETER MEETS ANDOVER

Phillips Andover and Phillips Exeter Academy baseball teams will meet today at the Plimpton Field, Exeter.

The nines have each had good seasons, and are pretty evenly matched, with Exeter having a slight edge.

Ray Coombs, star Exeter pitcher, will toss for the home team. He is a nephew of Jack Coombs, ex-Athletics star. He should be able to hold the Andover batters in check.

Capt. Jones of the Blue will handle the pitches of Slater. Slater is a fine pitcher when he is right, and he gives the Exeter hitters a lot of bother.

Newton high will play Boston English at Claflin Field this afternoon. The Suburban League champions have dropped their last two starts, though up to that pair of games they were undefeated.

With the league title secure, the Newton team naturally relaxed, and lost some of its sip. Having once let down, it is a question whether or not the Garden City nine can get keyed up sufficiently to beat out the Intown team.

RED SOX PLAY TWIN BILL TODAY

Detroit, June 9—With a pair of games slated with the Tigers here today, Bill Carrigan's Red Sox will make a strong bid to win both contests. One victory for the Sox and they will shift places with the Tigers, and another win would strengthen their hold on fifth place before they go to St. Louis to play the Browns tomorrow.

Ed Morris, sensational Sox right-hander, is the likely mound choice for the initial contest. The big hurler feels that he has the Indian sign on the home team and expects to climb higher in the win column today. A several day rest has put him on edge for the conflict.

Haskell Billings may be Morris' opponent on the hillock. The ex-Somerville high star whitewashed the House on their last trip to this city, and naturally feels that he can hold the Hub group in control.

Charley Ruffing, husky tosser on the visiting team, should pitch the second game for Boston. He is hitting his stride now, and with a little extra effort on his part, can cause the Tiger batsmen a lot of trouble. Van Gilder may pitch for Detroit in the second game.

Carrigan is not a bit dismayed at the showing of his club on the present western invasion though the number of losses overbalances the wins. There is hardly a team, other than the Yankees, that can hope to have an average of better than .500 on the road, with the western clubs rapidly forging to the front.

HUB CHURCH TEAM PLAYS PHILLY

As a result of their win over the New York tennis team, the Philadelphia players, led by Dick Williams, will meet the Boston team in the finals of the Church Cup matches at Longwood at 2:30 p. m. today.

Philadelphia's Church Cup tennis team defeated New York at the Longwood courts today, 6 to 3. A pair of defaults aided the Sleepy City team considerably. Frank Shields, New York, failed to appear for the matches, and in the doubles Kynaston of the Big City team was unable to find a partner to play Craft and Colborn.

Capt. Dick Williams won over John Van Ryn in the initial contest, sending his team into an early lead. Then, pairing off with Neil Hillman, he defeated Van Ryn and Kenneth Appel in a trio of matches.

Williams was at his best in the games with Van Ryn. His volleying left nothing to be desired, and he fired for the lines with perfect accuracy.

Sam Gilpin, Phillie, defeated Ed Feilbeman in two sets; Percy Kynaston made Neil Sullivan play three sets for a winning.

MISSTEP DERBY FAVORITE

Chicago, June 9 (AP)—A field of 15 three-year-olds, including some of the most consistent stake winners in the Nation, are expected to go to the barrier in the American Derby, the blue ribbon event of Chicago's racing season, at Arlington Park today.

The distance will be a mile and a quarter and the purse will carry $25,000 in added money. Prospects were for a fair track and cloudy weather, with big thousand spectators are expected to watch the Derby, which is the richest race of the outstanding turf events of the world.

Misstep, which ran second to Relic Court in the Kentucky Derby and which won the Fairmount Derby last week, is the big favorite to win. The Joe J. Merlo entry, with W. Garner up, has profoundly impressed the stabling with his form in tryouts this week and appears in great condition.

Pos.	Horse.	Weight.	Jockey	Prob. Odds
1	Misstep, 3 (W. Rodes)	126	W. Rodes	3-1
2	Jack Higgins, 126 (C. S. Allen)			5-1

HARRIS TO BE USED AS PINCH HITTER

New York, June 9 (NNS)—First Baseman Joe ("Moon") Harris, who came to the Brooklyn Robins from Pittsburgh along with Catcher Charles Hargreaves, will be used as a pinch hitter, it was announced today by Manager Robinson of Brooklyn.

"WRESTLING is getting to be a real highbrow sport," Paul Bowser told Mr. Boston today.

"What's the reason?" asked the veteran.

"I guess it is this fellow Sonnenberg," replied Bowser. "When I first started promoting wrestling matches in Boston seven years ago, I featured Italian and Greek grapplers. I later switched to Poles, Lithuanians and Germans.

"One night last fall I dropped in at Providence to see a wrestling show.

"I've got a fellow on the card tonight by the name of Sonnenberg,' the promoter told me. 'He used to play football at Dartmouth. He was a member of one of those magazine All-American teams. He is also an American.'

"'A real Dartmouth Indian?' I said jokingly to my Providence friend.

"'Well, his folks were born in the United States which is enough,' came back the Sonnenberg booster.

"I'll confess the idea of an American wrestler didn't cause me to enthuse. I have been in this racket all my life and had come to associate wrestling with big, burly foreigners. An American might play football, baseball or box, but wrestle? Oh, no. That was impossible.

"Anyhow I waited around to get a peek at Sonnenberg. He didn't seem to know much about the fine points of the game, but there was plenty of fire in his work. The result was he won the match with one of his famous flying tackles.

"AFTER the show, I signed Sonnenberg for a bout in Boston. He won and caught on with the fans. I kept using him at my shows. When he wrestled, I noticed he drew out a new class of fans. I soon had thousands of Americans seeking tickets for my matches. They liked the way this boy Sonnenberg worked. No stalling or tricky business. He got the job at hand over as quickly as possible.

"Since Sonnenberg got up there, the fans have been clamoring for me to match him with Strangler Lewis. I have told them to wait. I don't want to toss the old Dartmouth here in with the champion until I am sure he is ready for the big test.

"I'll confess he looked very good as he licked John Fribefg the other night. He was obliged to go more than 25 minutes to get the first fall. I have never seen a wrestler improve as rapidly as Sonnenberg has. I guess our colleges must teach the boys something after all. Sonnenberg has proved that a college graduate makes ten times as rapid progress in wrestling as do the big, burly fellows I pull off trucks and from the lumber camps.

"WHEN this fellow Sonnenberg wrestles, Dartmouth holds a reunion at the Arena. I am now rooting for Harvard, Boston College, Tufts, Boston University, Northeastern and the other colleges to turn out some rough, tough fellows. I can then match one college against another. It won't make me weep either when the box office is stormed by the rah-rah boys.

"Of course my heart is filled with sentiment towards the noble game of wrestling, but I must admit that I still get a kick out of it when the cash customers are storming the box office. I am also obliged to fight for existence and that probably explains my interest in the box office situation.

"I confess this boy Sonnenberg has made the future look very prosperous for me. I wouldn't be surprised if the next meeting of the Dartmouth board of trustees is held some night at the Arena after Sonnenberg has completed one of his brilliant exhibitions. You can tell the world I'm strong for these American wrestlers even if the one in point happens to be a Dartmouth Indian."

Battlers Rest Up for Monday's Go

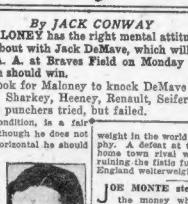
By JACK CONWAY

SHAMUS MALONEY has the right mental attitude toward his ten-round bout with Jack DeMave, which will be staged by the Argonne A. A. at Braves Field on Monday night. This means that Jim should win.

I do not look for Maloney to knock DeMave out. Nobody is doing that. Sharkey, Heeney, Renault, Seifert and a flock of other heavy punchers tried, but failed.

Maloney, in condition, is a fair boxer, and even though he does not knock DeMave horizontal he should win on points.

The speculative element is installed Maloney a 4 to 1 favorite. I believe I'd have gone a little bit wild as far as the price for the bout is concerned. Maloney, the one we last fall, isn't a 4 to 1 shot over a youngster like DeMave who has been active in the ring. The price should be 2 to 1.



Jack Conway.

Maloney will knock off training at Toland's Gym today, while DeMave will sign off at Kelley's.

Eddie Mack says there are enough seats at Braves Field to care for all South Boston and the rest of New England's fistic fraternity. Eddie also won't be angry if the seats are occupied.

TEX RICKARD is at his wits end trying to get a welterweight with sufficient courage to tackle Billy Murphy of Lowell. All of the New York welterweights have turned down the match. Rickard has had Murphy under contract since March.

The fact Murphy has beaten Johnny Indrisano, Jack Zivic, Meyer Cohen and Honeyboy Finnegan and outscored Ace Hudkins in a gym bout hasn't made Rickard's task any easier.

Connie Lynch, who manages his brother along with Johnny Buckley, says the reason Mello is flirting with middleweights is to avoid a title bout with Murphy. Mello is booked to clash with Frank O'Brien at Hartford on Monday night.

It will be remembered that Mello twice had difficulty in defeating Zivic, while Murphy handled the Pittsburgh battler easily. I imagine with two doubles and four singles Mello would rather meet any welter and scored four runs.

weight in the world other than Murphy. A defeat at the hands of his home town rival would come near ruining the fistic future of the New England welterweight champion.

JOE MONTE stepped back into the money when he defeated Jimmy Braddock in a 10-round bout at the Garden the other night. Gene Tunney and William Muldoon of the New York Boxing Commission had proclaimed Braddock as one of the most promising young heavyweights in the country.

Monte trained at Jimmy DeForest's camp for the Braddock match. He also had the veteran handler of boxers in his corner. All of which helped towards his victory.

BOB QUINN is getting Fenway Park ready for outdoor boxing. Col. Bob McKinly of the Arena Club has secured the boxing rights at the ball park.

Belgium Boxer Defeats Goldberg

New York, June 9—Rene De Vos, welterweight champion of Belgium, won over Henry Goldberg of Brooklyn, in a 10-round bout at Coney Island Stadium.

A left hook to the chin staggered Goldberg in the 10th round and he was unable to defend himself when a cut over the left eye received in the second round.

Fate Sanstol of Norway got the judges' decision over Joey Ferrandino of Brooklyn in a six-rounder. Sanstol weighed 117, his opponent 118½.

HOLDS CHARLESTOWN TO THREE SCATTERED HITS

South Boston defeated Charlestown High in a District League game at the C. J. Lee Playground, 3d st., South Boston, 5 to 1. Rear don held Charlestown to three hits, while Southie made 11 off Hines.

Driscoll's triple in the first opened the way for Charlestown's only run. The South Boston team staged a batting rally in the fifth Pittsburgh battler easily. I imagine with two doubles and four singles

Eagles Out to Even Series With Crusaders Today

McNULTY AND FONS ARE MOUND SELECTIONS

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

College baseball fandom, sporting the colors of Purple and Maroon, will swarm down on Fenway Park where Boston College seeks to gain revenge on Holy Cross today, in the second of the annual three-game series

Boston College and Holy Cross are perhaps the two greatest diamond rivals in the country. Since the war both colleges have produced the best teams in the East and their annual frays have attained classic heights.

This year's meetings have the color and glamour of all past struggles. B. C. is represented by one of the best teams in its history, while Holy Cross has already been conceded the Eastern Collegiate baseball crown.

Holy Cross has the edge but it is so slight that betting is at even money.

Boston College proved as good as Holy Cross in the first game. But once again the Purple's timely hitting and better ball playing provided the winning margin and sent them home with a 6-2 win.

The same batteries that opposed one another in the first game are slated to start. Hugh McNulty and Captain Fred McMenimen will work for the Eagles while Jack Barry has selected Alois Fons to toss, with Dick Phelan behind the plate.

Fons and McNulty are considered two of the leading twirlers in the East. Fons gave B. C. six hits in the first game while McNulty allowed the Purple one less.

It was McNulty's lack of control that caused his downfall in the previous encounter. He passed five men and four of these rounded the sacks to score.

Hugh Duffy, B. C.'s coach, has one worry. It's the fact that Al Weston, his star hitter, is not in good stride. Weston, since the first game in Worcester, has had but one clean slash in nine trips to the plate.

Lineup at Fenway

B. C.	HOLY CROSS
Creedon, 2b.	Harrell, 2b.
Morris, rf.	Shanahan, ss.
Weston, 1b.	Savage, cf.
O'Day, 3b.	Shevlin, 1b.
Moncewicz, ss.	Hurley, lf.
Gibson, lf.	Cahill, 3b.
Stokinger, cf.	Fisher, rf.
McMenimen, c.	Phelan, c.
McNulty, p.	Fons, p.

With the slump of Weston comes a healthy increase in the batting strength of Larry Gibson. The sophomore, playing his first season, is hitting in Ruthian fashion. He started in the first Holy Cross game by smashing two hits off Fons. Shevlin robbed him of a third bingle by a beautiful one-hand stab over in the first base sector.

Against Manhattan, Gibson got two hits, and his triple in the first inning of the Notre Dame game started Boston College on its winning way with two runs. Gibson also walloped a single against the same club.

Frank Savage, Holy Cross captain, and Jim Shevlin, first baseman, are the Holy Cross outstanding threats. Shevlin broke up the first game with a single to center field scoring two runs.

READY TO SHOOT EAGLE

Alois Fons, on right, is the pitching selection of the Purple for its game with B. C. today. He defeated the heights team Memorial Day and is favored to repeat his performance. Jimmy Shevlin, first baseman for the Worcester nine, proved a thorn in the side of the Eagle in their recent set-to with his timely batting. In addition to hitting, Jimmy is a star afield. Al Weston will have to do plenty of hard hitting, and McNulty will need be at his best on the mound to equal this pair.

TWO HOLY CROSS STARS

Olympic Tryouts on at Melrose Today

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

The leading athletes of this section of the country will compete this afternoon in the New England Olympic Tryouts which are being held under the auspices of the track and field committee of the New England A. A. A. U. at Melrose Athletic Field, Melrose.

At 2:30 o'clock the officials will start the long program of 16 events with hopes of getting a good crop of athletes to represent New England in the final Olympic tryouts to be held at the Harvard Stadium on July 6 and 7.

One hundred and seventy-five or more entries have been sent Manager Tom Kanally of the B. A. A., who is assisting Chairman Albert Geiger of the New England Committee.

The calibre of stars entered from the high schools, colleges and clubs convinces the lovers of the track and field sports that Melrose is the place to spend the afternoon.

Starting with the 100 meters event, the names of Al Miller, former Harvard star, Charley Finn, who made a name at Somerville high and equalled Charlie Paddock's 150 yard mark recently, George Morin, Holy Cross, W. F. Peppetto, Northeastern, and R. F. Atkins, B. A. A., will be among the list to perform.

The same group along with Frankie Burns, F. E. Cummings of the B. A. A., Paul Toolin, New England hurdle champion, and Vincent Hennessey of Harvard will be the leading stars in the 200 and 400 meters events.

Hennessey, who starred while at Brookline high, is one of the best that Coach Eddie Farrell of Harvard can boast of in these days.

FAST FIELD IN 800 METER

In looking over the starters in the 800 meters event one sees Luke Mulroskey, former hero of many Boston College track victories. Sam Martin of the B. A. A., New England half-mile champion, will also start in this event with Robert P. Porter of Harvard. Porter won the half-mile classic in the H-Y meet this spring. Charlie Thompson, another champion, and G. G. Felt of Amherst are also set to go.

Hal Cutbill, Bob Dalrymple and Julius Gilbert of the B. A. A. will step to the line against A. F. Noyes of New Hampshire State University and other worthy performers in the 1500 meters event.

McCauley Smith, former Yale two-miler, and Leo Lermond of the B. A. A., William Benedict of New Hampshire State, Alfred Francis, Dave Kneeland, Jr., and Danna Hutchinson of the Dorchester Club are all slated to compete in the 5000 meters event.

The 10,000 meter race will bring back to the this section George Lermond, who once was famous as a three to five-mile runner. George is on a 12-weeks furlough from the U. S. Military Academy, and would like to make a trip to Europe this summer with Uncle Sam's track stars.

GOURDIN TRIES COME-BACK

In the same race will be Robert [illegible] of Tufts, W. T. Simmons, [illegible] Frank Buechinger [illegible] of the Dorchester [illegible] McAuley [illegible] Howard of [illegible] New Hampshire State.

Paul Toolin, B. A. A. champion hurdler is entered in the 110-meters hurdle event with Capt. Earl McDonald of Holy Cross, William Henrich, Harvard; Bernard Lucas, Bowdoin; and Fletcher Hodges, Harvard.

The field events, which consist of the broad jump, high jump, hop, step and jump, shot putt, javelin and discus throw will find a classy field of athletes. In the broad jump Tony Plansky, St. Alphonsus A. A., D. White of Harvard, Fred Dunlop, B. A. A., Albert Rogan and Ned Gourdin.

Otis Kendall, New England champion broad jumper has entered the running broad jump with such others as P. S. Benjamin of Tech, A. W. Morang, Northeastern, Earl McDonald of Holy Cross.

Edwin Beech, B. C. captain is entered in the weight contests, with Charles Pratt of Harvard, Dave Guanaccia, Wakefield, Ed Flanagan of Holy Cross, John Lawler, B. A. A., Arthur Sagar, New England javelin champion, Phil Hamilton, J. R. Barrett and James Amed.

HANSEN TO TAKE ON DYNAMITE

The greatest all-star wrestling tournament ever staged in Boston will be held at the Arena next Thursday night, when Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg will meet Charlie Hansen, Swedish star, and Joe Bull Komar will tackle Stanley Stasiak, in a pair of two-out-of-three fall matches to a finish.

Sonnenberg won his 34th consecutive victory of the year last Thursday night, throwing John Frieberg twice in less than 40 minutes. The latest feat of the minute man is considered as amazing as any triumph he has ever recorded, for Frieberg is an international wrestling figure, with convincing wins to his credit over Wladek Zbyszko, Wayne Big Munn and Hans Steinke.

Frieberg has offered his services to Hansen, and will help train his brother Swedish star for the battle of next Thursday night. Between them, they should know all there is to know about the wrestling style of Gustave Sonnenberg, for Hansen trained Sonnenberg for his early matches, and Frieberg forced him to travel longer than any other wrestler he has ever met.

It is pointed out by the friends of Hansen that it took Sonnenberg 21 minutes to dispose of Frank Bruno last Tuesday night, while Hansen finished him in less than ten minutes. The Swedish star is as rough a wrestler as the game knows, and with his great speed, he expects to be able to combat the rugged, forward marching style of Sonnenberg.

The finish match between Stasiak and Komar will be almost as attractive as the Sonnenberg-Hansen match. Stasiak is in a class by himself on rough-house tactics, and since Komar is also built along the same lines, the battle will be for the rough-and-tumble championship of the East.

Notre Dame Meets Harvard Nine Today

By TED LYNCH

Surrounded with the dismal atmosphere of losing four of its last five ball games, Harvard will again call on Jack Barbee, its tall, right-handed hurler, to excavate it from its rut of defeats

Notre Dame is the visiting team at Brighton this afternoon.

Despite the beating the Westerners took from Boston College earlier in the week, Barbee has no easy job on his hands this afternoon. From the Notre Dame camp today came the news that the visitors would use Ed Walsh, Jr., on the slab, which positively makes Barbee's task all the more difficult.

The game today will be Barbee's first since the Penn game almost a month ago. The veteran Crimson pitcher has been laid up with a bad shoulder, and it was only this week that the injured wing rounded into satisfactory working condition.

He has been pitching to batters all week and apparently seems to have lost none of his effectiveness.

A similar fate caused Walsh to remain a bystander for a month. Walsh injured his wing while throwing to batters and made his reentrance in the lineup only a week ago.

He is now pitching better ball than when he appeared in a St. John's Prep uniform some three years back.

HARVARD LINEUP

Harvard is just overcoming the effects of the recent shakeup by Coach Mitchell, which benched three regulars from a team which one month ago looked like the leading college nine in the East.

Since that date Harvard has lost plenty of ball games and going into the game this afternoon the Crimson will be carrying the record of 12 wins, with eight defeats.

The lineup which Mitchell will use this afternoon on paper looks like the best Harvard team of the season. The recent influx of right-handed batters makes the team more powerful at the plate while Ralph Sullivan at short has steadied down the defense 100 per cent.

Cutts is just one of those ball players who spoil that time worn adage that "pitchers can hit." He hits the ball long and far and the Irish outer gardeners are in for a sprinting session this afternoon.

TODD IN RIGHT

Todd is a left-handed batter, who has just received his walking papers from the probation list. He has always played first base, but is easily capable of covering the right-field assignment as well as any of the present fielders.

Notre Dame, with Walsh on the slab, is a tough team to beat. Walsh has yet to be beaten this year in the six games he has hurled. When the South Bend senior toes the mound, the Irishmen play real baseball and many Westerners living in this section will turn out in large numbers at the Brighton ball park today.

The Jumbo nine meets the Wildcats in a return game at the Oval this afternoon.

In the earlier session at Durham, the Medford team toppled the New Hampshire club 4 to 3.

Slayton, the Wildcat mound ace lost to Southpaw Eddie Smith on that occasion, and the two meet again today in what will probably resolve itself into a pitcher's duel for Slayton has always been anxious to turn back the Nashmen.

In giving Smith the slab assignment for Tufts, Coach Nash is giving his leading portsider his last workout before the big test of his career, the Harvard game on Alumni Day, next Saturday.

In the absence of Frank Molley, brilliant sophomore backstop who suddenly decided to quit college, Myron Dorenbaum will draw the remaining assignments behind the bat.

The strong St. Cecilia C. C. of Back Bay will play the St. Alphonsus A. A. of Roxbury tomorrow afternoon at the Fens Playground. The game will start at 3 p. m.

TUCKERMAN'S HOMESTEAD IN 'CHASE

The Challenge Cup will be run off for the 28th time at The Country Club a week from today. The two and one-half mile steeplechase has 19 registered hunters entered this year. Despite the absence of Pagebrook, last year's winner, the entry list is strong.

Bayard Tuckerman has nominated Homestead, the reliable jumper on which he rode to fourth money in the American Grand National at Belmont last fall, also Rock of Cashel, which won the Aiken Hunter's 'chase later in May.

Grace, [illegible], owned by Dr. J. Fred Adams of Catonsville, is also entered. The horse won the first running of the [illegible] 'chase at [illegible] last month.

The Dunwalke [illegible] and John R. [illegible] Pete the Scribe, with John McEntee Bowman's Jolly Hampton, are other prominent entries. Jolly Hampton is out to break the Boston jinx which surrounded it a year ago when it watched six Hub horses finish ahead of it in the seven races. Mr. Bowman has also entered Espino II, a stablemate of Jolly Hampton's.

Pete the Scribe is coming out of [illegible] year. He will have a worthy running mate in Bridge, the Macomber jumper which has not been seen at The Country Club previously. Many consider Bridge the finest 'chaser in the Framingham Stable. He will be making [illegible] 1925, when he won [illegible].

A. F. Goodwin [illegible] enter Glance, recently acquired from D. D. Odell of Philadelphia. He made his jumping debut at the United Hunts in April, after a poor flat racing career, and proceeded to give Bayard Tuckerman's Rock of Cashel a great run in the Bellerose.

William Almy, Jr.'s, Grandale, Flying Horse Farm's Flying Ambush, Harry Worcester Smith's Lipingo, F. Ambrose Clarke's Cloverdale and Morning Sun, C. V. B. Cushman's Flight Time, Allison Stern's Festoon, the Sewickley Stable's Father Tom and Richard Whitney's Badminster and Gold Seal are also to race.

Gehrig Gets Right Slant on Passes

DEAR ROG: The boys were talking in the clubhouse the other day in Detroit and Herbie Pennock brought up a mighty interesting subject.

Herbie had been listening in on the conversation for some time without saying a word. Finally he came through with the question.

"How much do you figure it costs," he asked "to give a man a base on balls?"

After the gang had mulled it over [illegible] Herbie gave them the figures. Last season in the American League, he pointed out, four out of every 10 men walked also scored.

What is more to the point, he said, there were 103 games last season in which the walking run was directly [illegible] to a large [illegible]. Herbie's point, of course, was that pitchers need control more than any other one thing.

I never had thought of it quite that way—and I wonder if you have. I don't know whether the intentional pass bothers you fellows much, but with a man like Ruth in the lineup we see a lot of it. Already this season Ruth has 45 bases on [illegible].

Eighteen of those times he has scored—and on two other occasions the base on balls resulted in runs indirectly, since it advanced another runner, who was then in position to score on an infield out.

It seems to me that there's the answer to the intentional pass business. If pitchers stop to consider just what it means to walk a man they'll think a long time before handing out passes very freely.

Eighteen runs scored on 45 bases on balls is a pretty dangerous percentage for a man who is out there to win ball games.

I'm glad to see you've got the Braves going along pretty well now, Rog. Managing a ball club is a thankless task for the most part but we're all pulling for you to bring your club home somewhere near the top.

There's this thing about the National League race, too. It's a real dog fight and any club that can get away to a good winning streak ought to breeze in.

With six clubs [illegible] are in that league [illegible] happen—and there are seven clubs of the eight that have real chances to win.

I suppose you've noticed that Babe is away on another of those wild hitting sprees. He got 15 homers in May—the best May he has ever had—and he's still going strong. [illegible]

Let Us Give Thought for the Children

By REV. ARTHUR T. BROOKS, D. D.
Of the Dudley St. Baptist Church

JUNE is the children's month as well as the month for brides. In the church schools, June sees plans completed for the summer vacation Bible schools just when the Sunday school season is drawing to a close. Here there is much of recreation and enjoyment for the little folks who are not fortunate enough to go to the country. The Vacation Bible School is the bridge which spans the chasm between the end and the beginning of the Sunday school year.

We also note that June is the month which has its wonderful Children's Day exercises; when one whole day of the Sunday school year is dedicated to the children.

Children's Day in the Sunday school has become a fixture, and rightly so. The child is worthy of one special day. On that day the child is honored and exalted. The attention of those older is focussed on those of tender years. Both ages profit greatly by the considerations and blessings of Children's Day. We must honor children, more and more. We must DO our best and BE our best for the children's sake. It has taken us many centuries to learn the value of the child to the home, the state and nation. Eighteen hundred years of the Christian era passed before Sunday schools came into being. The last 50 years has seen more attention paid to the child than in all the centuries before; and in that same period of time has witnessed the greatest development in human progress the world has known. Is there any connection between the two? Honor the children in this month of June; honor the children at all times and cause their feet to walk in ways of good cheer, happiness, integrity and truth. And in their physical, mental and spiritual development, for upon the children of our generation depends the life, progress and future happiness of our country.

PILGRIMAGE OF GOOD WILL COMES TO HUB

A group of 1250 "Twentieth Century Pilgrims," sailing from England in a "Twentieth Century Mayflower," the SS. Celtic, will sight the shores of Massachusetts tomorrow morning and weigh anchor in Boston harbor sometime during the day.

On Wednesday next, these Pilgrims, who are all Congregationalists, will go to Plymouth for a service of re-consecration of Plymouth Rock.

They will land in Boston Monday morning and for two days become the guests of Greater Boston Congregationalists, who have arranged banquets, historic excursions, a civic meeting and numerous union services in many churches.

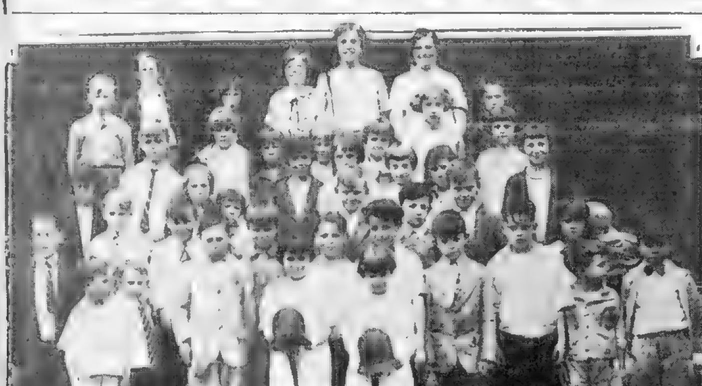
"And a Little Child Shall Lead Them"—Isaiah



As part of children's Sunday exercises at the Central Square Baptist Church, Cambridge, between 30 and 40 boys and girls will graduate from the primary to the junior department. Each child will receive a Bible in appreciation from the church and Sunday school. The Rev William D. Goble will take for his text in a talk to the young people, "I Have Learned." This class has been for several years under the direction of Miss Violet Crawford, superintendent of the primary department. They will now be under Miss B. Coggswell.

Madelyn Lucas and Isabel Cooke, two of the 40 children singers of the Second Congregational Church, Dorchester, who will help greet the English Pilgrims tomorrow evening, when eight choirs join with them. The children's choir at Second Church sings Sunday morning once a month.

CHINA FAMINE RELIEF

One million Chinese men, women and children have died of starvation during the first four months of this year. This condition threatens to continue until the fall harvest of next year—250,000 human lives each month.

It Can Be Done

The warfare will not prevent getting food to the people. Army authorities have promised protection. Relief is actually going on at the present time.

The work of food distribution is in charge of the thoroughly reliable China International Famine Relief Commission. On this commission are a former premier of China, the manager of the Peking branch of the National City Bank of New York, the general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in China, and several outstanding missionaries.

Will You Help?

The United States minister to China cables that for immediate use about $500,000 is needed. This was a month ago. A more recent message from Shantung says: "Every day the need is becoming greater and the suffering more acute."

Eight thousand helpless people are dying of starvation each day until we get food to them. Do not wait till you can make a larger contribution; give what you can today.

Draw check to CHINA FAMINE RELIEF, and send to Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt, D. D., Chairman, 4 Park St., Boston.

GREATER BOSTON CHURCH EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, Rev. A. D. Leavitt, D. D., Chairman, Rev. William R. Leslie, D. D., Rabbi Harry Levi, D. D., Rev. Eugene R. Shippen, D. D., Cornelius A. Parker, Dean Philemon F. Sturges, D. D.

Every dollar you contribute goes direct to China. All overhead expense has been covered by special gifts for that purpose.

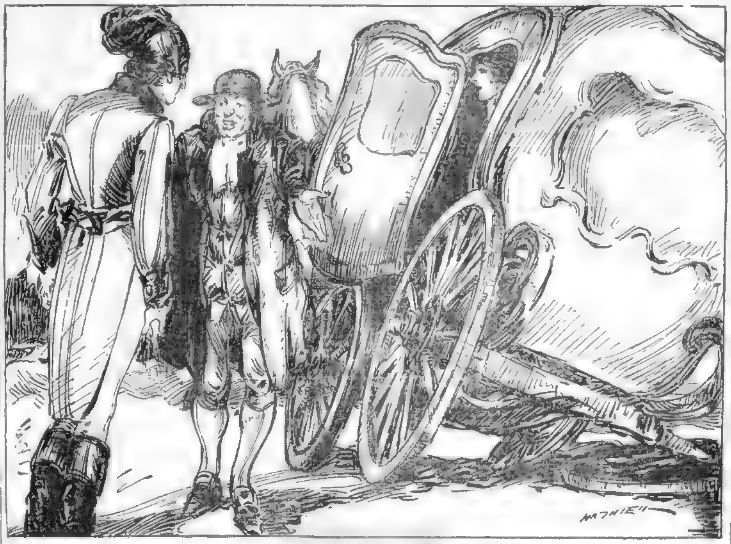
A Story of Love and the French Revolution

Chauviniere Forced to Change Plans



Chauviniere was swearing savagely.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

THE chaise of the Citizen-Deputy Chauviniere is being driven at a furious pace away from Paris. Within are Chauviniere and a young noblewoman, Cleonie de Montsorbier, whom he has saved from the guillotine of the French Revolution and spirited out of Paris with passports that certify she is his secretary. She is dressed in man's attire. As they ride on he tells her that he will give her a safe-conduct pass so that she can reach Switzerland. She tries to express her gratitude for his disinterested nobility, but does not see the dark flame that leaps into his eyes. She is staring straight before her.

[illegible]

CHAPTER VI.

"I HAVE no words in which to thank you. I am dumb in my gratitude and wonder. Your plan for me seems everything I could desire. In Switzerland I have friends. I . . ."

Cleonie's voice faltered and trailed into silence. It was no pretense that she was moved, that her self-control was slipping from her. She was daunted by the very need to command herself, to be alert, vigilant, and ready for emergencies which might creep up to pounce upon her unawares. Her brave spirit, which might have preserved its vigor in the presence of revealed danger, was being battered down by uncertainty and suspense.

Chauviniere's voice, soft as silk, speaking on a sigh, penetrated the distraction of her mind.

"In that case, since you so completely approve, we may consider the matter decided, and act presently as I have said."

He settled himself back into his corner, closed his eyes, and thereafter for some three hours which that journey endured he seemed to doze. It was as if his interest in his travelling companion were already diminishing now that the intended service was already half-rendered and the remainder of it clearly plotted.

The Landlord Came Out to Welcome Him to the Hotel

[illegible] the steps of [illegible] was falling and [illegible] the Hotel de la [illegible] Hotel Royal [illegible] had a w[illegible] from the postboy [illegible] traveller [illegible] ostler, and [illegible] welcome him in [illegible].

[illegible] this tribute [illegible] with a lofty de[illegible] I have [illegible] The best [illegible] secretary [illegible] and pro[illegible] august [illegible] a very choice [illegible] covered in the cel[illegible] neglected, and [illegible] for the representa[illegible].

At [illegible] and thereafter his de[illegible] Mademoiselle de [illegible] was of a correctness [illegible] could not have been exceeded [illegible] one of her own class. He was [illegible] but always deferential [illegible] never lacking in respect [illegible] presently [illegible] displayed unsus[illegible] culture, acquaint[illegible] with the works of [illegible] but also with [illegible] he free[illegible] began to [illegible] to trans[illegible] and all that at first she had suspected. He displayed a refinement almost incredible in one of his political creed, his manners were impeccable.

When at last she retired for the night, she went in an uncertainty more profound than ever. He held the door for her, his head deferentially inclined, and with a courteously expressed wish for her good repose. Within her room, which was next to his own, a wave of panic suddenly swept over her. She drove home the bolts with which her door was furnished at base and summit, then went to open her window, so as to ascertain what line of retreat might be available in case of need. It was cold and drizzling and the night was overcast and very dark. But light from a ground floor window showed her the gleaming cobbles of the yard, a good fifteen feet below.

At need with a twisted sheet she might go that way. But what then? Such a course was only to be contemplated in desperate case, and her case was not yet desperate. Indeed, she sought to assure herself, she had no cause to consider it desperate at all. She was a little coward, shuddering at shadows.

She was even more strongly of this opinion when she awakened in the morning, refreshed by unbroken sleep, the spring sunshine flooding her little white room, and realized on awakening how needlessly imagination had made a craven of her.

As There Was a Servant in the Room He Did Not Rise

[illegible] spruce and trim to [illegible] breakfast, so spruce and trim that [illegible] maid in the corridor gazed [illegible] a sly smile at the citizen-representative's young secretary, and [illegible] been distressed by that [illegible] indifference to [illegible].

[illegible] was already at table [illegible] was a servant in the room, [illegible] not rise. He nodded curtly. [illegible] his greeting had an edge.

"A[illegible], Antoine! You slept well, I [illegible]"

"Excellently, I thank you, citizen-representative."

"In future do not sleep quite so [illegible] I dislike late[illegible] young men who are re[illegible] their beds. Your [illegible] and the horses [illegible] being harnessed. We set out in 10 minutes. See that you are ready."

They travelled all that day at a furious rate, and with but two halts for food and rest and change of horses, so that before nightfall they had gone 60 miles and came to rest at Chat[illegible]-sur-Laing, a village of the Orleannais. Here the experience of the previous night was repeated. Again Chauviniere observed a deference that was almost exaggerated, again he talked glibly and entertainingly, displaying, as it were, all the jewels of his mind to dazzle and beglamour her. She thawed a little. Indeed it was impossible to remain frozen in aloofness under the glow of so much benignity. Yet once or twice, looking up suddenly, she caught his eyes upon her. They shifted instantly, and the wolfish expression she surprised upon his face was as instantly covered as if by a mask. But the impression of it remained upon her memory, to evoke a sudden ineffable dread, akin to that with which his eyes had smitten her in the Conciergerie.

He drank perhaps too much that evening, and in consequence slackened a little the reins of his self-control. For in holding the door for her departure and in wishing her good-night, the leer on his face and the evil glow of his eyes were unmistakable. Such was the fear they aroused in her, that, having locked and bolted her door, she flung herself fully dressed upon her bed, her mind in such a state of vigilance that she scarcely slept at all until the dawn. Yet nothing happened to justify her tremors of spirit, and when she came to breakfast she found herself awaited by a representative so correct and formal in his manner that she asked herself whether again her imagination had not tricked her on the previous night.

All day that question abode with her, whilst the chaise swayed and rocked in its headlong speed, and [illegible] sat there half-dozed in his corner with a disregard for her that was almost ungallant. It was still [illegible] when at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, within a half-mile of La Charite, a village at the Loire, their journey came to a sudden lurching end as the result of the loss of an axle-pin, which but for the post-boy's quick perception might have had more serious consequences.

Chauviniere climbed down, swearing savagely. It had been his purpose to reach Nevers that night, there to address a meeting of the Committee of Public Safety and so to plan that upon the morrow he might set out upon [illegible]. That plan he must now abandon, and accept such a kennel as La Charite could offer his republican sybaritism.

Yet, when they had tramped the half-mile of muddy road to the vil[illegible] [illegible] stairs [illegible] with a bedroom opening from each side of it. Within an hour of their arrival an unusually good supper was placed before them by the vintner and his comely wife, who did not spare themselves in their en[illegible] in their own words their poor house was honored.

Martha Lee Tells of Brown Rice Rules

"WHAT is the difference between brown and white rice?" writes a little bride from Braintree, and perhaps the answer [illegible] be of interest to many.

[illegible] white rice. [illegible] gives us delicious bran containing valuable mineral salts, calcium, phosphorous and [illegible].

[illegible] gives you vitamin A, "the vitamin of growth," and vitamin [illegible] digests very [illegible] and is particularly friendly [illegible] It is [illegible] gout, heart troubles, blood vessel complaints and other troubles.

So, you see, it is really quite an important member of the food family. Health, keenness and happiness are all contained in these little brown [illegible] the [illegible] Martha Lee kitchen, you will not need to wash it for this rice is an [illegible].

Remember, however, that brown rice [illegible] cook [illegible] steam over [illegible] water for at least an hour and a half or it may be soaked for an hour before cooking and then [illegible] for an [illegible].

[illegible] in the double boiler. The [illegible] are a cup of brown rice, [illegible] salt and a pint of [illegible]. Cover, set over [illegible] and steam for [illegible] hours.

It is [illegible] in soup, in combination with baked apples and cream, and in a meatless loaf.

Here are a few particularly delicious ways of using this valuable vegetable:

Curried Brown Rice—Stir two tablespoons butter, melted and mixed with one teaspoon of curry powder into boiled or steamed brown rice. [illegible] good [illegible] with creamed lamb or fish or creamed mixed vegetables.

Brown Rice Meatless Dinner Menu—Boiled or steamed brown rice, mushrooms in brown sauce, buttered sliced carrots or flowerets of cauliflower. Have the foods very hot [illegible] to form a [illegible] from the edge of [illegible] the center put [illegible] the caps left whole, the stems chopped and heated in brown sauce. On the ends put the carrots or cauliflower. Garnish with parsley.

Steamed Brown Rice—Into the top of a double boiler measure one cupful of brown rice, one-half teaspoonful salt, and two cupfuls cold water. Cover, place over boiling water and boil and steam for one and a half hours. When done the [illegible] will have absorbed all the excess water and each kernel will be firm, distinct, yet digestible. [illegible] should not be stirred while cooking.

Note—If the rice is soaked for an hour beforehand in the cold water it will cook tender in one hour.

[illegible] Rice, Italian Style—Melt [illegible] tablespoons of butter, add one cupful of onions, peeled and sliced [illegible] peppers or [illegible] until softened [illegible] mushrooms or two cup[illegible] mushrooms, peeled and [illegible].

Cook [illegible] the mushrooms are tender, then add four cupfuls of brown rice, boiled or steamed, one [illegible] pepper and [illegible] one-half cupful of grated cheese and serve very hot.

If [illegible] to press [illegible] browned [illegible] served like an omelet on a hot platter. This is a [illegible] should be used in [illegible].

Brown Rice Vegetable Meal Menu—Brown rice, chopped spinach, buttered beets and creamed onions.

Pile hot brown rice, boiled, steamed or cooked in milk, on a good-sized platter. Cover with grated cheese. At one end put the onions whole or sliced, buttered or creamed [illegible] the [illegible]. Pour a little melted butter over the whole.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

Reed on Longer Life

By CHAS. A. L. REED, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU know that many people thinking they are well, or only slightly indisposed, suddenly wake up to find themselves often hopelessly in the grip of some serious disease. This is strikingly true of such diseases as tuberculosis, cancer, local infections, diabetes, Bright's disease and various nervous and mental maladies.

If the disease had been detected in its early and curable stages [illegible] the picture might have been different. Many highly intelligent people, recognizing this fact, have [illegible] against disaster.

At present no routine examination of the bodily or mental condition of the supposedly healthy is carried out except among children, where excellent results have followed the work of the school medical officer and child welfare worker. Recently, however, there has been some discussion, and a growing recognition of the importance of regular investigation by the family doctor. It is a commonplace of vital statistics that sickness is greater at the extremes of life, and the sensible mother has for many years taken her children regularly to the dentist, whether they complain of toothaches or not. From the dentist to the doctor is a step, and a logical step, that she will soon take.

At the other end of life there is no watchful mother to insist on unpleasant visits, and [illegible] realized and half-admitted fears of reluctance come in to keep the man and woman of 45 or more from submitting to a modern verdict before pain or disablement force them into doing so. The results which have followed from an insistence on such examinations by certain insurance companies, are, however, so striking as to demand [illegible] recognition. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York found that as a consequence of [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] records for [illegible]

The average [illegible] of [illegible] increased [illegible] during the 14 years when the regular medical examination was in force, whereas the average during [illegible] of [illegible] only increase by four and a half years during that time. Moreover, of those examined, no less than 97 per cent were found to be living in some defective way, which was easily corrected when they found they were doing wrong.

Dolly Receives a Heart-Breaking Blow

By KATHERINE BRUSH
CHAPTER 35

DOLLY thought casually as the bell rang. "There's Bee."

She went to the wall and thumbed the little button that clicked open the street door downstairs. She opened the door of the flat and left it ajar.

She paused at work. Such strange footsteps. Heavy, ponderous, yet somehow not firm. Stumbling and uncertain, halt and slow. And there were accompanying noises. [illegible] against the wall. The ascent of a person blind, or—or—

Suddenly she knew.

Dolly stood stricken [illegible] the half open door [illegible] out and peered out into the hallway.

"Jerry," she said.

The footsteps ceased.

"Jerry." Her lips were stiff and dry.

She heard him clear his throat somewhere in the gloomy well of the staircase, rather near. "Lo," he answered.

She went to the balustrade, and looked down.

He was on the landing a dozen steps below. By a night light that burned on the wall just over his head she could see him quite plainly. Too plainly. He wore a straw hat and dinner clothes, and with one hooked finger he dragged his topcoat after him, like a train. That he believed himself unobserved was obvious.

His free hand, palm flat, patted the wall timorously, as though to make sure it was there; and having made sure, patted it affectionately, applaudingly. He slumped against the wall. His right foot, seeking the next step, grazed it and slipped off, found it again and again slipped off, pawed at it, hoof fashion.

"Jerry," called Dolly, tensely low. "Listen. Listen to me a minute, Jerry."

He looked up then; grasped the banister rail and rocked far backward—perilously far backward, so that she all but cried out in alarm—and lifted his face toward her. The slanted brim of his hat shadowed his eyes; but she could see his mouth. His smirking mouth.

"There you are!" he cried. "Wa-a-ay up there."

"Jerry." Her stage whisper sounded to her like a scream in the slumbering house. "Please, dear—do something for me. Turn around now, and go back downstairs, and go home. Will you do that? Please. It's so late. I—I'll see you in the morning."

Jerry gave no sign of having heard. "Been looking f'r you," he mumbled, "been looking f'r you—" with a sweep of his arm "—hours 'n' hours. Been looking. Fact." His tone became argumentative, and louder. "S the truth! You ask Gay. Gay'll tell you. I said. 'Mus' go see li'l Dolly ana—anapol'gise. Mus'.'"

He wagged his head owlishly. "S'what I said."

Words. Mumbled, thick-tongued words. Dolly's brain made no sense of them, so intent it was on its more immediate and pressing problem. How to get rid of him? How to induce him to go, before the whole house wakened!

She rounded the curve of the balustrade and descended fleetly and [illegible]

She put her hands on his shoulders and attempted gently to turn him [illegible]

[illegible] know that? You want to go down.

"Come, take hold of my hand. I'll go down with you." She heard herself murmuring these coaxing [illegible]

[illegible] Like my father." Monotonously.

All at once she was terribly angry. Her fingers on Jerry's shoulders tightened spasmodically, her nails dug the cloth of his dinner [illegible] her puny strength to dislodge him from the railing to which he held fast. "You—go—away! I can't—you—oh, can't stand this—"

That was it. The second she had said it she recognized its truth. She could not endure to see him so. Not concern for the other dwellers in the house, nor fear of what they might think, motivated her; but a frantic desire to get Jerry, this blinking, babbling, hideous Jerry out of her own sight, her own hearing.

Her hands fell away from him and hung, clenched into little fists, at her sides. She bit her lip to stop its hysterical quivering, and for the first time she looked squarely at him, straight into his dark swollen eyes.

"Jerry—"

"Now, now," he broke in reprovingly, "don't be mad. Mus'n' be mad." Still anchored by one arm to the banister rail he sought to pull her to him with the other. "Kiss 'n' make up—"

[illegible] the alarm. [illegible] the room that she perceived only as a brilliance hazed with her tears. She shut the door. Clinging with both hands to the knob, she dropped to her [illegible] huddled there [illegible]

[illegible]

It was as though some sinister Thing pursued her, some grim relentless Thing of which she was mor[illegible] [illegible] to be afraid of [illegible] do nothing more [illegible] heart, and that he ha[illegible]

"Anyway," she th[illegible] get [illegible]

He couldn't. He tried to, with raps, with husky words, with twists of the doorknob, with poundings that she fancied shook the building. He wanted to tell her something. He assured her repeatedly that he had to tell her, that it was very important, that she must open the door and let him talk to her. . . .

Crouched on the floor, not three inches from him she listened; but she did not speak a single word.

His outburst was succeeded finally by a silence so absolute, so lasting, [illegible] ing out there? He hadn't gone, she would have heard him [illegible] door. No sound. Not the faintest breath of a sound.

She got up quickly and unlocked the door, and threw it wide. Jerry [illegible] sleek back hair was tousled as a little boy's.

He had evidently been almost asleep, his chin on his starched white chest; but with the opening [illegible] smiled at her. Trustfully, somehow.

Bitterness went from her then, though her mind clutched for it, tried hard to retain it. She had hated Jerry a moment ago. Now she did not hate him, and could not. She could only pity him. So helpless he looked! And so young.

"Oh," she said, "poor kid. You're tired, aren't you?"

He nodded. "Li'l nap—fix me right up."

She nodded, too, in swift compassionate agreement. "Yes. But not there. You mustn't sleep there." She bent over him, tugging at his limp arms. "Get up, Jerry honey. Stand up just a second. I want you to come inside—where you can be comfy—"

For half an hour after that, until Bee's return, she sat near the couch on which Jerry lay sprawled, and watched him; her eyes fixed and dull with pain; her fingers stirring and [illegible] black coffee with a spoon.

The engagement was broken. Not [illegible] Jerry's [illegible] pleas and frantic promisings, not all his threats, his announcements that he would go "straight to hell" if she released him, his shrewd persistent appeal [illegible] parted for work, she cried wretchedly. But she did not change her mind.

[illegible]

"I can't," she said [illegible] [illegible] didn't care enough, or you—weren't man enough. Either way I—I don't want you."

And again, "If I had some influence over you, Jerry—if I really could help you—it [illegible] different. But I haven't any influence over you. That's been proved. I haven't even now, when you love me most. And as soon as ever I belonged to you, and had become a sort of fixture, a habit—then I wouldn't have any at all—and my [illegible]

And again, in an overpowering surge of grief, "Oh, Jerry, how could [illegible]

Then he would repeat his explanation. It was like this. He hadn't intended to get drunk, nor even to take a drink. Not for one minute. [illegible] intending to write some letters and go to bed, "—but when I was unlocking the door of the apartment I heard the phone ringing, and it was Gay. And she said Alan, that's her [illegible] come up and rescue her before she bored herself to death? So I said sure. I knew you wouldn't care."

He hesitated, and looked at Dolly, and Dolly said, "No, of course not," lightly, as was expected of her. For a month now, something more than a month, she had been assuring him that she 'didn't care'—that his revived and flourishing friendship with Gay had her entire approval—because she had thought, "I won't be selfish about this. I neglect him—I work all day and study all evening—an he's entitled to some companionship, isn't he? (Isn't he?) There isn't any harm in it, is there? (Is there?)"

"Well," continued Jerry, "so I went up to her place. They have a house on a roof, you know. Marvelous place. I'd never seen it before, and I was crazy about it. She showed me all around, and we sat outside a while looking at the lights on the river and across on Long Island—it's simply grand up there [illegible] And then they said she was going to mix a cocktail for herself before we started out. We'd decided to go to a few of the night clubs, you see, and dance and [illegible]

WOMAN WAS ALL RUN-DOWN

Helped By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Evansville, Ind.—"I am writing to let you know how grateful I am that there is such a medicine as yours for sale in our stores. I could hardly drag around. I was all run-down. I have taken 12 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so far and am going to take it until I am well. My friends see the change in my appearance and my husband said today that I am looking so much better and he wants me to continue taking it. I hope to help all women who are run-down and suffer from nervousness by recommending your medicines."—MRS. VICTOR N. SCHIENSKER, 44 Hazel Avenue, Evansville, Indiana.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

A BLONDE is a banana peel on the path of a man's good resolutions.

Marriage license: A license to begin telling a man the real truth about himself—and to stop telling a woman ANYTHING!

In these days, the girl has the right to make the first advances in love, and even to force the issue by doing the proposing. She also has the right to push a locomotive off the track with her motor car. But try and DO it!

Life is like a violin: it is only after years and years of practice that you learn what sweet harmonies it can make, and how to touch the strings that turn it into a melody.

The average man thinks that he can't be a "he-man" and at the same time wear flowered pajamas. But, oh, how he loves to shine in a lot of gold braid, a Masonic apron and a cocked hat!

* * *

You can always tell the guest room at a glance. It's the one with the prettiest bedspread and the most uncomfortable bed, the handsomest curtains and the window that sticks, the embroidered towels and the clock that doesn't go.

* * *

Everything has its compensations. In the days when kitchen stoves and women's stockings were plain black, there were a lot more good pies and cakes in the world—and incidentally there were a lot more husbands who died from dyspepsia.

* * *

"Lots of things are caught by kissing," according to the doctors. Oh, yes, many a girl has caught a millionaire that way, and many a married man has caught the devil.

* * *

Silence is golden in a man, pure radium in a woman—and just plain grouchiness in a husband.

BETTER STOP WORRY

By J. J. MUNDY

DO you worry much about the future and still go along in your usual way without making any special, continued effort to meet the things you dread?

It does not much use worrying over what is to become of you, if it does not stir you to greater efforts to fortify your future.

Better stop worrying and begin figuring.

You are not willing to change your course, it seems.

It is too easy for you to imagine that fate will change things.

Just quit worrying the good fairies a wave a wand and you will benefit by their generosity.

Things don't happen that way, unless in children's dreams.

You have to make an opening for yourself and push yourself through.

It may be hard work, certainly, but it's not impossible.

But if you keep avoiding hard things, you will not get the necessary nerve and strength to carry you on to success.

Start now while you are able to work.

The longer you wait, the less able you will be to carry on.

You will need all your power to win out.

THE DAILY DIZZY

By HOBAN

MEDBURY SAYS—

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

LIFE is a cheap proposition.

We're born on credit, live on the installment plan and we're buried on deferred payments.

Pitiful Cases.

The woman who had to buy her own groceries because she moved into an apartment house that didn't have a dumb waiter.

Ode to a Blonde.

She couldn't help being dizzy, she slept like a top.

Big Indoor Men.

A single man doesn't necessarily play a better game of golf than a married one, but he gets more chance to talk about it.

Our Own Vaudeville.

Judge—You say you're already married?

Prisoner—Yes, I sell real Scotch for $2 a quart.

Fashion Hint.

The well dressed diner doesn't like heavy knives and forks. They get his pockets out of shape.

You're Right.

A man who has no grit should eat spinach.

Social Errors.

Never judge a wedding gift by the resale value.

Financial Note.

Lack of money is what causes most of our poverty.

Feminine Dumbbells.

The woman who wouldn't buy a saddle horse this summer. She says she wants to wait until January, when the new models come out.

The following correction is printed in the Monrovia Evening Post to avert a misunderstanding.

In a recent account of the May Day fete the Post made the statement that Dick Hassinger, May Day king, balked at appearing because his pants were too tight. Relatives, friends and his teacher ask that a correction be made. Dick did not balk, he simply declined to go on, and Miss Kate Collins, principal of Wildrose School, from which the king was chosen, also refused to allow him to appear, it is said. The reason for Miss Collins' refusal to allow young Hassinger to take a part in the fete was that his costume was so tight he could not sit down. The Post is glad to make the correction.

EVOLUTION ON THE FARM

(Press Dispatch)

REPUBLIC, Kan.—A monkey is being used as a helper on a farm near here, and according to the farmer, W. H. McClure, the animal is about the best hand he ever has had. McClure declares his assistant feeds the hogs, keeps chickens from the garden, runs errands and is learning to pitch hay.

* * *

Says the Rev. Mr. Wiley:

"Silence may be golden, but the Big Noise seems to gather in the mazuma."

Or, perhaps, Farmer McClure is merely making a monkey out of a hired hand.

* * *

It would be interesting if Mr. McClure could teach the monkey to do the ordering from the mail order house.

Adam Scoffaw's Journal

This evening, on coming home, my sparrow chirp to see a catch-penny movie show, and she make such a pathetick plea that I did agree to take her. So the poor wretch put on her best shoon, and carry her fan of ostrich feathers, and lead me to see "Blistered Hearts." And when I waked, finde the house in utter emptie, whilst my partridge hath tip-toed to the front row, where she sit, a-flutter.

INFAMOUS FIRST WORDS

What's new?

A NEW HEAVEN

By LUCY LOWELL.

I HAVE just met another of those young persons—a young woman it happened to be this time—who seem bent upon creating a new heaven and a new earth for reasons that the old ones are too commonplace.

"Bourgeois" is, I believe, the word they use in describing the shocking condition of things as they are.

Why they use the French word instead of the dozen and one English words which would do just as well and probably mean a lot more to them since very few indeed of the clan actually speak any language excepting their native tongue I am sure I don't know.

The point is that these young crusaders seem to be having a rather sorry time out of life, being put to the necessity as they are of continually watching themselves lest they appear to traffic with something or somebody which would, in their several opinions, be put under the ban of being "bourgeois."

And most "bourgeois" of any created thing is the instinct to desire every safe and sane and human thing. For that instinct is discontent.

And discontent is so banefully commonplace that only the ones who rises above it is to be envied as a rare spirit.

Will "Somebody Else" Relieve Stock Holdings?

By B. C. FORBES

New York, June 9—Read this penetrating observation made to me by Melvin T. Traylor, head of the First National Bank, Chicago, and regarded as one of the levelest-headed bankers in America.

B. C. Forbes

"The stock market reasons that we are tremendously rich in capital whereas it is our tremendous amount of credit that it really has in mind.

"They are not the same, by any means.

"We are reminded that in Britain before the war investments sold on a three per cent basis or not much more, and we are told that the United States is now richer even than Britain then was and that, therefore, we must expect to see investments here sell on an equally new income basis.

"The important fact—the vital fact—is overlooked that the British then were investing actual capital, actual savings, and that these investments were bought outright, to hold for the income yielded.

"But not even the most rampant stock market bull can pretend that all the stocks which have been taken on here have been purchased as investments for the sake of their income yield. Nor can they claim that all the stocks have been paid for.

"My estimate, based on the official figures issued, is that ten billions have been borrowed for stock market purposes from all the banks in this country—non-members and members of the Federal Reserve system—and from foreign interests now lending here on a very large scale, perhaps to the extent of a couple of billions.

"As I see it, therefore, many who are carrying stocks partly on borrowed money will soon get tired of paying far more to the use of that money than they get in dividends. And nobody is foolish enough to dispute that vast numbers of shares have been bought simply with a view to selling them again at higher prices. What brought the pre-war low yields abroad was abundance of surplus capital and outright purchases of securities strictly as investments. Here the abnormal rise has been caused partly if not mainly by enormous buying on borrowed money credit, for speculative purposes—to sell out on a profit.

"But will all such buyers find it possible to cash in their present paper profits? That's the question."

There you have an analysis worthy of serious consideration. Certainly it is true that lots of individuals mean to make profits by selling their holdings to somebody else. So was it during the Florida boom. But "somebody else" disobligingly refused to hold the bag when the dumping process began in earnest.

Of course numerous arguments can be given to show why American stock prices should be higher than ever before. But the situation has another side—that emphasized by Mr. Taylor. He indicated that conservative bankers are unlikely to go on lending more and more for stock market purposes under the conditions which have been brought about.

Well, we must just wait and see what happens. Maybe those of us who cannot feel intoxicatingly bullish will continue to be wrong in our expectations of what the market is liable to do.

That recalls a remark made this week by one of the few real students of investments who has made a big fortune in Wall Street. He said: "It's incorrect to speak about 'the market.' We don't have one stock market now. We have a thousand. I mean that each stock must be analyzed by itself individually.

"Some stocks still are not dear, considering their earnings, their book value, their business prospects and their superior management. But such issues have become fewer and fewer as prices have advanced. It is a fact, however, that the buyers have exercised far greater discrimination, generally speaking, than in former bull markets."

Along the Atlantic City boardwalk this week I noticed that brokers' offices were crowded and that a very large number of women were present, watching the ticker most intently. Conservative investors are not ticker-watchers all day.

* * *

Most business men continue to expect somewhat better demand during the second half of the year. Things have already picked up in several directions.

WORLD PEACE FAR AWAY

West Point, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—World peace has not arrived and neither is it approaching, Col. Charles B. Robbins, the Assistant Secretary of War, told the graduating class of the U. S. Military Academy today, citing that in the past 4000 years small advance toward universal peace has been made.

"No one who looks with an unclouded vision on the history of the world and on the present attitude of the nations toward each other can believe that the day of world peace has arrived or is approaching," Robbins said.

He added that world peace could not be brought about by the disarming of one nation, but through the expression of the hopes and aspirations in the heart of mankind.

BOSTON NATIONAL BANK CAPITAL TO BE RAISED

Directors of the Boston National Bank have recommended the increase of capital from $400,000 to $500,000 through sale of 1000 additional shares of stock and a special meeting of the stockholders will be held July 12 to vote on the recommendation. If authorized the new stock will be offered to stockholders at $150 per share, in the ratio of one new share for each four shares now held. Payment of the new stock is to be made by July 31.

Proceeds of the sale of new stock will increase the capital $100,000 and $50,000 will be added to the surplus. The stock is currently quoted $175 bid.

The Boston National Bank was organized in 1921 with a capital of $200,000. In 1926 the capital was increased to $400,000.

ITALY PROTESTS LEAGUE PROBES OF INDUSTRIES

Geneva, Switzerland, June 9 (AP)—A protest by Signor Scialoja, Italian representative on the council of the League of Nations, against the future program of the league in the realm of economics, was a feature of today's meeting. Scialoja argued that too many economic conferences were being arranged by the league including an investigation into the crisis in the sugar and coal industries. He expressed belief that the league should confine its economic activities to an elaboration of general economic principles.

$1 INSURANCE WINS PRAISE OF ALL

The Boston Evening American's remarkable offer of a $10,000 accident insurance policy for one dollar has stirred all New England. Thousands of families have already received the policy which entitles them and their families to liberal protection and care in case of accident.

Applications are pouring in at a rate that taxes the efforts of the large staff engaged in the Insurance Department of the Boston Evening American to catch up with the demand for more policies—and more policies—and more.

The Boston Evening American's efforts to promote the cause of public safety are proving to be resultful and appreciated.

OFFICIALS LAUD

High officials in public and civic life have heartily congratulated the Boston Evening American for its most practical and unusually striking offer to protect every home and family in New England against the tragic consequences of death or injury through accident.

Governor Fuller has commended the plan, Mayor Nichols, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Parker, Senator David I. Walsh, and a host of other prominent men have endorsed the plan as a real public service.

The Boston Evening American issues these policies at a cost of one dollar. Each policy is underwritten by the North American Accident Insurance Company, the oldest and largest exclusive health and accident insurance company in the United States. Every cent of the one dollar registration fee goes to the insurance company.

The Boston Evening American bears all the expenses of distribution. There are no conditions. There is no occupational discrimination—mechanic, lawyer, banker or laborer—all are entitled to exactly the same policy at exactly the same terms. Every member of your family between the ages of 15 and 70 is eligible for a policy.

The offer is so remarkable that many persons fail to appreciate that it is true and that all they have to do is fill out the coupon and mail or bring it with $1 registration fee to the Insurance Department of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq.

POLICIES RENEWABLE

The Boston Evening American wishes it to be clearly understood that one dollar covers everything and entitles you to a $10,000 accident insurance policy for one year. At the end of that year, the policy is renewable at exactly the same cost—$1 for a whole year. With each year, the policy becomes worth even more! It increases ten per cent with each renewal until the maximum of $15,000 is reached. The insured, however, pays NOT ONE CENT MORE than the dollar registration fee for each year's protection. He can renew or not just as he pleases at the end of each year.

Furthermore, it is not necessary to subscribe to this paper or any other publication for a year or a month or any length of time in order to receive a policy. This is an out-and-out offer to provide the most liberal, iron-clad insurance policy we have been able to discover. Its advantages are open to all.

This is part of this paper's vigorous drive to prevent injuries, to save lives, to protect families against the want and privation that follow in the wake of accident.

Take advantage of the opportunity to purchase the peace of mind that comes from knowing that your dependents are protected against the constantly increasing danger of accident.

(See coupon on Page 8.)

3 Expeditions and 3 Boys Off for African Wilds

New York, June 9 (AP)—Three expeditions to interior Africa, two to make camera safaris and the other to collect live and dead specimens of animals, sailed for Europe today.

Aboard the Ile de France were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson and the three Boy Scouts selected from thousands who participated in a nation-wide elimination contest. They are to make a six weeks' camera safari through the big game country.

The boys, all Eagle Scouts, are: Robert Douglas, Jr., Greensboro, N. C.; David R. Martin, Jr., Austin, Minn., and Douglas L. Oliver of Atlanta, Ga.

Two expeditions, the "Arctic-Equatorial" party of Carveth Wells and that of the Milwaukee Museum of Natural History, headed by Dr. S. A. Barrett, were aboard the White Star liner Olympic.

Wells represents the Chicago Geographic Society and is going to the Mountains of the Moon, on the equator, near Victoria Nyanza, Central Africa, on a meteorological and geographical exploration trip and to take pictures of the Tse Tse fly.

The Milwaukee Museum expedition hopes to obtain live and dead specimens of big game.

three Chinese schoolboys were executed at Canton yesterday. They were confessed "Reds."

If the "Reds" win next week or later, they will chop off some heads that are not red. And so it goes. Here the Constitution guarantees free speech, and we only put people in jail for saying what they think.

President Green of the American Federation of Labor renders a service to the public and the porters by avoiding a Pullman porter strike. He told the colored workers on Pullman cars: "Economic conditions are unfavorable to the success of a strike." It is a good thing to know when not to take action.

AMERICANS GUARDED AS FALL OF TIENTSIN NEARS

Tokyo, June 9 (AP)—With the fall of Tientsin into the hands of the Nationalists believed imminent, foreign garrisons were making final preparations to protect their Nationals today. Severe fighting was reported between Tientsin and Taku, 25 miles to the east on the coast.

Peking, June 9 (AP)—Uncounted thousands of troops of two factions of the Nationalist army, those from Shansi Province and those commanded by Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, were close to Peking on three sides today.

Although 6000 Shansi troops have entered Peking the situation continued quiet. The commander issued a proclamation assuring foreigners they would be safe.

POWER TRUST IDEAS FED TO NEWSPAPERS

Washington, June 9 (INS)—Propaganda of the so-called power trust has been fed to millions of newspaper readers through a subsidized news service and magazine claiming to reach 14,000 rural daily and weekly papers throughout the country.

According to documents in the federal trade commission utilities investigation, this publishing organization—E. Hofer & Sons of Salem, Ore.—was subsidized and expanded by the power interests to fight public operation of utilities and other measures to which they objected.

The first reference to the Hofer organization appears in the minutes of a meeting of the Rocky Mountain committee of public utility information held in Denver May 9, 1922.

It reads:

WANTED $200 A MONTH.

"The executive manager (George E. Lewis) read a communication from E. Hofer & Sons, publishers, Salem, Ore., in which the committee was asked to contribute $200 a month—$100 from Colorado, and $50 each for Wyoming and New Mexico for the Hofer service, which goes to 550 newspapers in the committee jurisdiction.

"Following a brief discussion, it was the sense of the meeting that, because of the limited finances at the disposal of the committee, it would be impossible to subscribe for this service; that the best that could be done under present conditions is to subscribe $300 for the current year, as evidence of good faith on the part of the committee and to further, so far as possible, the work of the publishers."

PAID $300 A YEAR

Checks are in the record showing payments of $25 a month by this committee, or at the rate of $300 a year.

A report by J. F. Dostal, president of the Rocky Mountain division of the National Electric Light Association, on the actions of national committees of the association at a Chicago meeting on March 21, 1923, read:

"Mr. Insull for the public policy committee announced that arrangements had been made so that the service of Hofer & Company of Salem, Ore., would cover the whole of the United States and that the expense had been underwritten by a number of large manufacturing and holding companies, and would not result in any additional expense for the national association."

WELL KNOWN IN SALEM

Inquiry in Salem, Ore., disclosed that there was no "Hofer & Co." there in 1928, and such an organization was unknown there, according to Seattle dispatches. E. Hofer & Sons were stated to be well known in Salem.

The "Mr. Insull" credited with the announcement was believed to be Martin J. Insull of the Middle West Utilities Company. He was chairman of the public policy committee in 1923.

Minutes of a Chicago meeting of the association's public relations national section on September 22, 1924, detailed the reports given by M. H. Aylesworth, then managing director on the association's activities. The minutes said:

PREPARING A KNOCKOUT

"He called attention to a municipal ownership map and article prepared by the Hofer service and sent out by that service upon request to more than 400 newspapers which have or will publish it."

The Hofer organization leaped to arms in December, 1927, over an editorial in the Portland (Oregon) Journal, picturing electric rates in Ontario, where the hydro-electric plant is government-operated, as lower than those charged by privately owned plants in the country.

R. M. Hofer, the manager, wrote to Paul Clapp, managing director of the Light Association, saying: "I believe we can make a reply to the Portland Journal article which will be a knockout," and asking "data to make a brief and suitable answer."

WAR ON BETWEEN HEIRS; HEAD OF ONE SET IS HELD

Toronto, Ont., June 9 (AP)—The head of an association of heirs laying claim to land in the city of Philadelphia upon which the City Hall stands was under arrest today following investigation by the provincial authorities. William Baker, a York county farmer and president of the Bakers' Heirs Association of Ontario, was charged with theft of $10,000 from the Drake, Watson-Springer Association, composed of heirs of Sir Francis Drake, who are seeking to establish claim to estates in England.

22 CARDINALS TO PLAN FOR PEACE WITH MEXICO

Rome, June 9 (AP)—Plans for a possible settlement of the Mexican religious controversy are to be considered by the congregation of extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs, a body of 22 cardinals. A report on the Mexican religious situation which Archbishop Ruiz y Flores of Michoacan gave to Pope Pius was referred to the congregation. The cardinals will consider the document and appoint one of their number to draw up conclusions from it. These will be debated by the entire body.

GOVS. SMITH AND WEEKS TO BURY HATCHET ON ROAD

Rutland, Vt., June 9 (AP)—The ancient feud between New York and Vermont will be forgotten on Flag Day next Thursday, when Governors Alfred E. Smith and John E. Weeks clasp hands at the border gateway between Whitehall, N. Y., and Fair Haven, to formally open the new gateway road. The highway will connect this city by an unbroken ribbon of pavement with New York city.

BRADFORD ACADEMY CELEBRATES TODAY

Bradford Academy, at Bradford, will celebrate its 125th anniversary today—the oldest institution in New England for the higher education of women. Commencement Week, which conclude with Commencement on Monday.

Give Chow-Chow Pup Violet Rays so He Can Win Prize

Chicago, June 9 (AP)—If Pabe Do-Chi fails to take home a blue ribbon tonight at the Hinsdale Kennel Club show, it won't be the fault of science.

The chow-chow has completed a two-months course of violet ray treatment prescribed by a physician.

"It soothes the nerves and stimulates the hair cells," is the explanation.

LINDSEY SEES 'MALICE' IN BILL TO DISBAR HIM

Denver, Col., June 9 (AP)—The Colorado Supreme Court had before it today a petition filed by the State Bar Association asking the disbarment of Judge Ben B. Lindsey, nationally known former juvenile court judge here, on charges of "professional misconduct as a member of the bar."

Judge Lindsey calls the move "malice" and is fighting it.

Lindsey was charged specifically with having accepted more than $40,000 for representing Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes in the successful contest of the will of her husband, W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire, who disinherited his two Denver children.

The bar association contended that Lindsey, who had earlier granted Mrs. Stokes custody of her two minor children in a suit against her husband, had no right to be retained by her. The children at the time the will was contested were wards of the Denver juvenile court, under the ruling which awarded them to Mrs. Stokes.

The petition stated that a $37,500 fee alleged to have been paid Lindsey by Mrs. Stokes consisted of shares of stock gained for the children in the fight on the will.

THAW TO 'SPLIT BRITAIN OPEN'

London, June 9 (INS)—The detention of Harry K. Thaw at Southampton aboard the Aquitania having been indorsed by the whole British press on the ground of his record, a reporter was sent to discover his reaction to his exclusion from London, ere he started back to America today.

Thaw asserted he had been advised by his London lawyers not to talk. Then he burst out:

"When I get to quarantine in New York Harbor, I'll split the British empire wide open."

Later, fingering his book, "The Traitor," Thaw said:

"There is no doubt in my mind that the British Government has been tipped off to my visit by "The Traitor." There are 12 men still on my blacklist, and one of them now is in London."

MOTHER OF 2 VANISHES FROM SOMERVILLE HOME

Mrs. Olive Lewis mother of two children, one eight and the other four years old, is missing from her home in Dimick st., Somerville, according to a report to Somerville police, who have been asked to search for her. The elder child, Florence, is sick in bed. Both children, as well as the woman's husband, Arthur Lewis, an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad at Allston, are anxious for her return home.

Mrs. Olive Lewis

Mrs. Lewis disappeared from her home on May 16. She is 30 years old, weighing 170 pounds, five feet in height, with dark complexion, brown hair and brown eyes, and wore a light coat when she left home.

$40,000 LOEWENSTEIN FUND FOR PHILLIPS

Exeter, N. H., June 9 (AP)—A gift of $40,000 to Phillips Academy here by the family of George Sutro Loewenstein Exeter '23, who died last December, was announced today by Principal Lewis Perry. The interest is to be expended annually "to realize in the academy and among its students certain aesthetic and humane ideals which dominated the life of the student for whom the memorial is named."

NOVA SCOTIA POTASH FOR CANADIAN FARMS

London, June 9 (AP)—The Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., of which Sir Alfred Mond is chairman, is stated to have purchase a substantial interest in the Malagash Salt Co. of Nova Scotia. It is hoped that this development will result in the Canadian farmer becoming independent of Germany for supplies of potash for fertilizing purposes.

7-DAYS DANCE STILL GOING IN CHICAGO

Chicago, June 9 (INS)—The pageant of somnambulism was still in progress at the Coliseum today which means, in less expensive words, that Chicago's so-called dance marathon is still going, if not so strong.

The contest was 164 hours old at 8 o'clock this morning. At that hour eight semi-conscious couples were still dragging weary limbs over the quarter-acre floor, all blind to everything except the large sign advertising $3500 first prize to the surviving couple. The second last couple to fade out will receive $1000.

GOING SEVEN DAYS

For the past seven days and nights these 16 young persons have been constantly in motion—you couldn't call it dancing—except for a 15-minute rest period after every full hour on the floor.

How much longer it will last, no one knows. After observing the pathetic, sleep-deprived contestants, one is convinced they cannot hold out more than a few hours longer, but that was the general impression two days ago.

Pathetic is the only word that adequately covers the situation at this stage of the game. Those who think prize fighting is brutal should sit in.

IT'S A MONEY MAKER.

From a box office angle the show has been a huge success. For the past five days there has been a goodly attendance during 24 hours of every day, with the ancient coliseum packed to the rafters at night. The show draws from all stratas of society.

"Scarface Al" Caprone is reported to have lost $10,000 on a New York couple that dropped out early yesterday. They were Peggy Downing and Nick Wenrich. Even a doctor, a nurse and several trainers, reputed to have been hired by Caprone to attend the couple, could not keep them in the race.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

The Bachelor

Is It Fair to Pay Him Less Than the Husband?

Should the married man, simply upon the fact of his having dependents, be better paid for equal service than the bachelor?

A school of social philosophers has long upheld the affirmative, on the same ground that others uphold maternal pensions and insurance. Some nations have put into law various preferentials for the fathers of families.

How many know that we have such a preferential system in our Army and Navy?

By an act passed six years ago, while the pay of officers of equal rank remained equal, the allowances were so varied that, for example, a bachelor rear admiral in the lower half of the list, on command at sea, drew only $6219 a year, while his married contemporary, with the same rank and service, and doing the same duty, received $7500.

That is still the law. A bill to remove the "substantial wrong" was introduced in the recent session of Congress, but it did not pass.

Its author, Representative Hale, of New Hampshire, spoke vigorously against its unfairness, having particular reference to the Navy, in which the preferentials reach the widest gap in practice.

He expressed surprise that there has not been insistent clamor for remedial legislation. He could find no excuse whatever for compensating the married officer simply for the fact of marriage.

It is evident that he is not a sociologist.

Happy and Well Dressed

Congratulate His Hindu Subjects

H. H. THE MAHARAJAH OF RAJPIPLA

This handsome young Maharajah is one of the local rulers in India, kept on their thrones by grace and permission of the British Government, living comfortably on fortunes and taxes that represent the toil and misery of millions of Hindu subjects.

Concerning this good-looking, cheerful, well-fed, well-dressed young person you read that he has just arrived in England for his customary six months' holiday. His Highness is a well-known owner on the turf. He has built a private polo ground at his home near Maidenhead, and last year WAS RATED THE BEST-DRESSED MAN in the British Isles!

What a perfect picture of a gentleman, riding through life on the backs of others. We have many of the same kind in America, spending money they never earned, enjoying safety they never deserve, coming in, at one end of life, with a golden spoon in their mouths, going out at the other end with hardening of the arteries.

However, miserable as they are now, you may well congratulate poor Hindus that pay taxes as slaves and servants of the Indian Rajahs and Maharajahs.

Those ruling Maharajah gentlemen are kept in check by the British, and so, for that matter, are the other inhabitants of India. British power, represented only by the 100,000 white men in India, compels 300,000,000 in India to live in an almost civilized way.

When the ancestors of this young man ruled, without British control, famines and plagues swept India at intervals. And the great mass of "untouchables," the lowest Hindu cast, lived in misery beyond comprehension.

The marriage of little girls nine and ten years old to middle-aged men was the USUAL thing. No mind can picture the suffering of those unhappy children, married almost in their infancy.

And to cap the climax, when the old husband died public opinion demanded that the miserable wife should be

BIRTHDAY PARTY IS GIVEN ON RADIO

By DR. FRANK CRANE

RECENTLY the friends of Douglas Malloch staged a radio birthday party for him. At 8 p. m. a Chicago broadcast station gave a national birthday party over the radio.

An actual birthday cake was there from some prominent American woman and there were several speeches, and Mr. Malloch read some of his poems.

The poetry of Douglas Malloch is highly appreciated by many. It is not ambitious poetry and as a rule is not filled with a lot of things nobody can understand. It is simple, plain and mellifluous.

He is one of those authors like Trader Horn and some others who came in through the back door of literature and not through the high-brow magazines.

He came because he has a message of cheer and help and melody that is appreciated by many people.

It is a good thing to give flowers while he is living and not wait until death. If Mr. Malloch were dead a great many fine things might be said about him. It is just as well to say some of these things now.

That his poetry has cheered and helped multitudes is no insignificant thing.

If a man cannot or does not create great and startling things he ought to have some credit for cheering us all up a bit, and that Mr. Malloch has certainly done.

Like Thomas Hood, Mr. Malloch can say that he has never written a line that would hurt anyone.

He has not gone in for sadness and so-called realism, nor disgusting or objectionable subjects, but has piped a sweet, harmonious song from the humble hedgerow of life, a song that has cheered many a soul plodding along the way, trying to perform his simple duties and meet his simple responsibilities.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HOW are you sprouting this Spring? Funny question? Not at all.

You're expecting everything else to sprout, aren't you? Just this morning you were out inspecting that bun on the new rose bush, poking around to see how the sweet peas were coming along. And you certainly enjoyed that ride last week past the fields of thickening grass, the rows of tasseled poplars, the orchards laced with blossom sprays.

Yes, you take it for granted that the earth will sprout each Spring. It would upset all your calculations to have Mamma Nature doublecross you. The world would be a dead glar without the springtime. And you'll be a dead star unless you do a little springing, too.

So how many new mental shoots are YOU sending out these restless days?

How much dead growth are YOU sloughing off?

How much deeper and taller and wider are YOU planning to make your life this year?

Yes, I know it's hard for people to change. But that doesn't let them out. It's hard for potatoes to grow too—but what would happen to the world if the potato union went on a strike?

Life runs along pretty much the same lanes whether you're a potato or a person.

Life wants OUT.

Life wants more roots, new buds, taller trunks to house its swelling urge. It wants them in men as well as in plants.

Springtime is a loveliness of fragrance and color and shimmering mist—but behind that loveliness a grim struggle goes on. A pushing and groping and shoving a wrench-in and grumbling—.

Hard work? Yes. But that's the law of Life.

IF YOU WANT TO KEEP LIVING YOU'VE GOT TO KEEP HUSTLING. And hustling hurts.

It will hurt to slough off your old prejudices, discard your spites and jealousy. But it will hurt worse if you don't do it.

That weary, discouraged feeling you've had this Spring is LIFE. Spring sap rising in your spirit as surely as it rises in the grass and trees. You need more room. The mold that was big enough for your life last year, isn't big enough now. You need wider branches, deeper roots. If you don't get them, your spirit will pine and die inside your withered bark.

So come on—,

Get busy—,

Do a Springtime!

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Mean men will speak well of him that does ill.—Cromwell.

He who puts off impurity thereby puts on purity.—Emerson.

Poverty is the discoverer of all arts.—Apollonius.

True patriotism is of no party.—Smollett.

No man was ever great by imitation.—Johnson.

To err is human, to persist in error is devilish.—St. Augustine.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

SO much of beauty lies in those old ways, when down the vista of past time I look to years a-brim with glad and golden days. Enchantments lay on every field and brook, an azure than were all the birds and flowers; a promise dawned with every morning's light and something sacred touched the tranquil hours of dusk that paraded the evening night. Faith's torch was bright, and ever as it gleamed it lit new wonders for our eager feet; content to wait, through endless days we dreamed of joys to be, and found all dreaming sweet. There is no land in all this world we know can match the loveliness of those old ways; is it that Earth was fairer long ago, or was it but the bloom of youth's glad days?

New York Day by Day

By O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 9—The pivotal point for sharpers and others who prey upon the unsuspecting is Times sq. It is there they look for suckers and make their "contacts." It is estimated that by 8 o'clock at night 2000 fly workers have swarmed there.

Few tricks are pulled off in Times sq. Those picked up are piloted to side street speak-easies or other out-of-the-way rendezvous where the necessary "props" for a shake-down are handy. Only a small proportion of the nightly gypperies become public.

Men will endure heavy financial losses rather than face Page One and the courts. Times Sq. workers have a plausible manner. They frequent public places where the chances of falling into casual conversation is easy—the intimate cafe, movie houses, hotel lobbies and such.

Their manner is one of prosperity and they have glib tongues. The choice selections are out-of-towners, a little lonely and seeking hoop-dedoo. The sharper, too, posed from the hinterland. He has a card a friend at home gave him where they can get "the real stuff" cheap.

Considering statistics show there is a flood of some 20,000 strangers unloosened, on Broadway nightly, these "contacts" are not so difficult as they sound. A large percentage of these strangers are lonely and looking for a few high spots.

In the past year the revival of an old Bowery favorite—the knock-out drop—has been noticed in the Tenderloin. The victims are usually found feet up in hallways, sleeping it off and completely rolled for their wad. Knock-out drops produce nothing more than oblivion, a violent headache and perhaps a firm resolve to stay home after dark.

UNDERWORLD argot is the most colorful of all slang. "Working the shorts," for instance, refers to street car pickpockets. "Sole boosters" are shoplifters who work alone. "Chasing the mob" is looking for suckers.

A GENTLEMAN giving an elaborate dinner in a smart hotel was notified as his guests arrived he must pay cash at the conclusion of the dinner. He did this by making a hurried touch from one of his guests. At the finish of the expensive affair he found his apartment lock had been plugged for overdue rent. A sport to the last gasp.

A LADY arrested in a film-flam game had six unlisted telephones in her apartment. She was known to her victims by a different name over each. That's tricking the boys.

MAYOR WALKER is said to have more telephones in his home in St. Luke's pl. than any other private residence in town. The number has been estimated from 20 up to 40. My idea of nice, clean fun would be to ring them all at once just as His Honor falls asleep. And then run like everything.

FRANKIE BAILEY, who in Weber-Fieldian days was noted for her shapely limbs, is now a hostess in a New York hotel. She is in her 60's, but those who know her say she looks 40. She is best remembered of all the show girls of another generation.

THERE came to New York recently a grizzled Arctic trader who had not been back to civilization since 1888. It will take him two years by various stages, including dog sleds, to reach home. Only one newspaper printed a few lines of his arrival. The movie press agents have made city editors skittish about such yarns. They feared if they played up the story two weeks later a Broadway movie would be showing a film called "Farthest North" or something.

Criticize Spain

But Remember Our Fight

Public opinion wins in the end. It discouraged tobacco chewing, a national habit, after Dickens came here. It stopped dueling, once the refuge of every "gentleman" that disliked the truth about himself.

Now public opinion has compelled Spanish bull fight authorities to protect the blinded bull fight horses with armor. Bull fight enthusiasts protest. They like to see the bull's horn rip open the helpless blinded horses. But a royal decree demands the armor. Foreign public opinion accomplished that.

The Plaza de Toros "fans" hope the armor will not be too effective. And this is no country to criticize them, with brutal mobs at a hundred prize fights every day, yelling with delight at the sight of blood. Brutality is not limited to Spain.

Happy and Well Dressed

BURNED ALIVE upon the fire that consumed his body. The British have stopped the burning alive, called "suttee," to a great extent. Here and there it still breaks out among fanatical Hindus.

The marrying of children to old men has NOT been stopped.

Parents are taught that a girl not married when she is young is disgraced. And for fear that she may never marry, the child is made a wife before she is finished in early girlhood. All the power of England has not been able to stop this.

Meanwhile, the young gentleman whom you see here, well educated, behaving himself very well, undoubtedly, never marrying any child of ten, playing polo and "best-dressed man in the British Isles," enjoys life thoroughly.
